HITLER TALKS WITH SPAIN'S HIGH DICTATOR

FRANCE AND MADRID TIED IN WITH AXIS PLANS

(By The Associated Press)

Berlin, Oct. 23—Adolf Hitler conferred with Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco on the French-Spanish frontier today in an extension of axis maneuvers begun yesterday with Vice Premier Pierre Laval of France, and informed Germans indicated the conversations were definitely tieing France and Spain into axis plans for reorganizing Europe.

A terse communique issued hours after the fuehrer met Franco said they talked "in a cordial spirit of comradeship uniting both nations. No hint is given regarding the subject discussed."

Informed sources said today's meeting could be regarded as a concrete result of Serrano Suner's visits to Rome and Berlin a month ago. It is assumed here that spadework then cleared the way for the meeting between the two chiefs of state for thorough discussions and perhaps binding decisions.

Government Temporary

Following the Hitler-Laval talk, somewhere in France, the vanquished republic became the object of marked attention from both Germany and England. This much can be said despite the absence of official German interpretation of that meeting.

As regards the negotiations with France, some political observers usually in the know compare the Petain government to the first post-World war German cabinet headed by Philipp Scheidemann. The similarity, they said, consisted in the fact both were likely to prove mere transitory arrangements.

Hitler naturally would prefer to deal with a firmly entrenched French leadership, these sources said. Nevertheless, yesterday's conversation appears to have been productive.

AGREEMENT READY

By Charles S. Foltz, Jr.

Bern, Switzerland, Oct. 24 (Thursday), (AP)—A proposed new French-German agreement, giving the axis powers air and naval bases in all France and the French empire, but not handing over the French fleet or putting the French in war against Britain, was reported tonight to be in the hands of the Petain government at Vichy.

Reports from Vichy indicated Marshal Philippe Petain himself may go to Paris soon to sign the agreement, which also would extend the frontier of the unoccupied zone north to the Seine.

This would give the Vichy re-

WAR BIG ISSUE, AL SMITH SAYS

New Deal Trying to Get U. S. Involved; Trend Toward Willkie

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith asserted tonight that "war is the important issue" in the presidential campaign and said he shared "a general belief among people that the new deal is trying to get us into war."

The 1928 Democratic presidential nominee, who dined with Wendell L. Willkie aboard the latter's campaign train, told reporters "there is no question that there has been a trend toward Willkie during the last two weeks."

Smith previously had announced his support of the Republican candidate and conferred with him only a few hours before making his first campaign speech in Willkie's behalf.

Wearing his brown derby and puffing a big cigar, Smith boarded Willkie's train at Harmon, N. Y., and then chatted with Mr. and Mrs. Willkie in their private car on the way to New York.

He said he wanted "to discuss the situation" with Willkie and to hear him talk "so I will be able to tell everybody he hasn't lost his voice."

Questioned about New York State, Smith asserted "the situation is getting better and better every day." He added that he believed "New York State is all safe, because I don't think New York City can give enough plurality to overcome the upstate vote (for Willkie)."

Autopsies Ordered In Death Of Two At Jackson Prison

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 23. (AP)—An autopsy was ordered today into the deaths of two southern Michigan prison inmates stricken in their cells during the night.

Both men had been employed in the prison paint shop. Deputy Warden Glenn Carpenter said there were indications the men had skimmed what they thought was alcohol from several cans of shellac, and smuggled it to their cells, where they drank it. They died shortly after removal to the prison hospital.

The victims were Percy Root, 43, sentenced from Jackson in 1934 in a breaking and entering charge, and Thomas Torpey, 55, sentenced last May from Jackson on a third offense disorderly conduct charge.

Motors For Tanks Built In Detroit

Detroit, Oct. 23, (AP)—The Detroit plant of the Continental Motors Corp. soon will begin production of motors for the 25-ton medium tanks being built by Chrysler Corp., officials of the Continntal company said today.

The company reported a $750,000 expansion program at its Muskegon plant is being planned.

Thirty motors a day will eventually come from the Detroit plant for use in the tanks produced by Chrysler for the United States and Great Britain, the company said.

Petain On Way Out As French Bow To Nazis

BY CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR.

Bern, Switzerland, Oct. 23 (AP)—The French government of Marshal Philippe Petain is on the way out, well-informed sources reported tonight, in favor of a regime headed by Vice Premier Pierre Laval and favoring close co-operation in general, and by the French fleet in particular, with Germany and Italy in the war against Britain.

Official France was reported by these informants to be a house violently divided against itself over the question, with Laval supported by Naval Minister Jean Darlan and a majority of the navy command.

On the opposing side were said to be Chief of State Petain himself; General Maxime Weygand, former generalissimo of the French army; General Charles Huntzinger, a signer of the armistice with Germany and now commander of the French army, and a majority of the cabinet.

Laval's main argument for striking the best possible bargain with the axis for co-operation with it in establishing its "new European order" was understood to be that if the Vichy government rejected the proposal, even the unoccupied zone of France might fall under German occupation.

If the axis considers French Mediterranean and African bases essential in the war against the British, Hitler and Mussolini can take them by force, supporters of the vice premier told their colleagues, according to reports from Vichy.

Laval was pressing his negotiations with German officials in Paris, where, it was reported here, he might set up a new government and ignore that of Marshal Petain, who was represented as reluctant to remain as chief of state in any regime co-operating closely with Rome and Berlin.

Leaders of the projected Paris government would include not only Laval as chief of state in Petain's shoes, but also Admiral Darlan, whose long-standing anti-British attitude was reported to have developed into a frank desire to place what is left of his fleet in the fight against Britain.

DEPOSED RULER UNDER ARREST

King Carol and Woman Friend Detained At Seville, Spain

(By The Associated Press)

Seville, Spain, Oct. 23—The deposed King Carol and his buxom woman friend, Magda Lupescu, were under a polite form of arrest today—still pursued by the unsatisfied enmity that had driven them from Rumania only last month and now threatens to break up at last their long, determined association.

Under guard with them in their hotel here was one of the most faithful of all the king's men, pale, thin Ernest Urdareanu, who was minister of the palace in the days before the pro-Nazi Rumanian Iron Guard howled Carol from an unhappy throne last Sept. 6.

Various Crimes Charged

Ahead of them was the prospect that Urdareanu and Madame Lupescu—although probably not Carol himself—would be returned to Rumania to face trial at the hands of the Iron Guardists, who have accused the little palace politician and Carol's red-haired feminine associate of various crimes against the state.

All three—Carol, Madame Lupescu, Urdareanu—were taken into custody yesterday.

The original plan was to remove them to Granada while the Spanish government considered the matter of extraditing them. But this afternoon the Rumanian foreign office, apparently at Carol's personal appeal, decided to let the three exiles remain here a while longer pending the extradition decision.

Illegal Gill Nets In Lake Michigan Spotted By Plane

Lansing, Oct. 23, (AP)—The law enforcement division of the state conservation department said today it had confiscated 11 miles of gill nets which were used illegally in Lake Michigan.

The department said a pontoon-equipped airplane spotted the nets and reported their locations to shore stations and patrol craft.

Grange Oven Title Regained By Women

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 23, (AP)—women regained their own at the Michigan State Grange convention here today, capturing the title of grand champion cook in the Grange baking contest which was wrested from them by a boy a year ago.

Leona Algoe of Ortonville won the grand championship with a batch of quick bread, while the 17 year old Sparta lad, James Bowler, who defeated the women last year, was second in the men's division. He won last year with a cherry pie and lost this year with white cake.

The reserve champion was Mrs. Gladys Fox of Rose City, and the best male cook was Earl Swiler of Lake Odessa.

Fog Curbs German Attack On Britain

(By The Associated Press)

London, Oct. 23—Buildings in London shuddered and shook with the tremendous impact of frequent bombs tonight as the German air force, smothered by a day and night of smoke-blackened fog, returned to the attack for one of the earliest night raids of the war.

Hardly had the unusually early dusk descended over this city of millions of war-seasoned civilians before German planes were roaring back and forth in the murk, dropping bombs which rattled windows with their concussion and drawing anti-aircraft fire that grew louder with every blast.

After one high explosive bomb had showered a cafe with glass, however, a lull followed as the bombers departed.

The attack succeeded a day and night of a comparative lull, in which, however, one direct hit last night demolished part of a department store turned into an air raid shelter and took an estimated toll of 25 lives.

London had but one alarm during the day, and it lasted only a few minutes without any German planes reaching the city. Stray German planes also were reported during the day over western England.

The government said a "very small" number of casualties and only slight damage resulted.

The same thick fog, made blacker by smoke pouring from London's chimney pots, which reduced London's Tuesday night raids to mere sporadic affairs, apparently kept most of the German luftwaffe earthbound.

Dickinson Denies That Republicans Brought On Polio

Lansing, Oct. 23 (AP)—Governor Dickinson broadcast a campaign appeal to upper peninsula voters today for support of his program, which he described as without "frills or fancywork."

Dickinson, who seeks another term, had cancelled a scheduled stumping tour of the northern Michigan counties this week for the asserted purpose of remaining home to direct a conference between employer and employe spokesmen in the interests of industrial peace.

The speech was telephoned to Marquette and broadcast through upper peninsula radio stations.

The governor defended his policies in the administration of welfare, old age assistance and medical treatment of crippled and afflicted children.

Children Not Neglected

"Some inquiry has been made regarding the care of some of the little victims of the poli (infantile paralysis) outbreak in northern Michigan," he said. "I may tell you that every child needing treatment is in a hospital.

"I assure you that the state has not nor will not neglect any unfortunate child who needs care."

Dickinson asserted his administration has "provided more for actual welfare needs than any previous administration" and provided old age assistance to a greater number of old persons.

"This has been accomplished," he continued, "because we have insisted upon cutting out frills and high administrative costs, that more of the money appropriated might go to the people for whom it was intended, rather than for the maintenance of an expensive personnel."

BADGERS FEAR ANOTHER SPLIT

LaFollette Indorsement By Wallace Stirs Up Democrats

Madison, Wis., Oct. 23 (AP) —Indirect endorsement by Henry A. Wallace of Senator LaFollette's re-election campaign brought a Democratic cry of "treacherous betrayal" today, and rumblings of a possible party split.

LaFollette is running on the Progressive ticket.

President Roosevelt's close political relations with the Progressives has been the source of Democratic dissension for more than six years. The kindly nod which his running mate gave the party last night raised another loud protest.

Addressing a Democratic rally, attended by many Progressives, Henry A. Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice president, expressed appreciation of the "untiring support we in Washington have received from the Democratic and Progressive congressmen in Wisconsin and from your senior senator, Robert M. LaFollette."

As he spoke, the party's candidates for governor and senator, Francis E. McGovern and James E. Finnegan, walked out of the hall, followed by several others. Previously, some candidates had said they would bolt if Wallace failed to endorse the entire ticket.

GUARDS WILL BE GONE FOR YEAR'S WORK

FAREWELL PARTY AT ARMORY; TRAIN LEAVES 11:05

With the strains of martial music and cheers and farewells from hundreds of relatives, friends and well-wishers ringing in their ears, two officers and 103 enlisted men of Company A, 107th Engineers will board a special Chicago and Northwestern train tonight at 11:05 o'clock, bound for at least a year's training with the U. S. army at Camp Beauregard, Louisiana.

Aboard the same train will be other companies of the 107th from Calumet, Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie as well as the regimental band from the Soo and the medical corps from Calumet. The train is scheduled to arrive in Louisiana Saturday afternoon.

Before the men board the train, they will be guests at a farewell party to be given by the Escanaba chamber of commerce at the armory in the exhibition building at the fairgrounds, starting about 9 o'clock. The company will be presented with athletic equipment purchased with donations from the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs of Escanaba. Farewell messages will be given by Mayor S. R. Wickman, Chamber of Commerce President Gust Asp, K. C. Grand Knight Clyde McGonagle, and George N. Harder, chairman of the county draft board. Community singing will be led by R. P. Bowers, director of music of the senior high school.

The Escanaba municipal band directed by Frank Karas and the county Michigan WPA music project band directed by Cecil Collins will lead the procession of guardsmen from the armory to the railroad station. The American Legion will sponsor the latter's appearance.

Gone At Least Year

As guardsmen board the train tonight, they realize their's is an uncertain future. Enlisted for a period of three years, they have been ordered into regular army training for a period of at least a year. But few members of the company are that optimistic as to believe they'll be back in a year. They feel that, with a year's army training, they may be called upon to remain on active duty to induct thousands of conscriptees who will be drafted in the near future in the first peace time draft in the history of the United States. And there is always the possibility, especially with troubled conditions abroad, that the United States may be involved in another war. If such is the case, the boys

Roosevelt Promises Unreliable, Declares Hugh S. Johnson

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 23 (AP)—General Hugh S. Johnson, making what he termed a "political speech," told a Michigan State college lecture course audience tonight that he failed to find "one single act of President Roosevelt consistent with a purpose of peace."

"I think boys are being drafted for the duration of a wholly unnecessary war," the former National Recovery Act administrator said. "The greatest issue in this presidential campaign is war or peace."

Stating that "one of the campaign issues is the common, garden variety of integrity," Johnson said he never knew Wendell Willkie to break a promise but that "the record shows that I cannot rely on Mr. Roosevelt's promises."

Cities May Open Polls On Central Time, Read Opines

Lansing, Oct. 23, (AP)—Attorney General Thomas Read said today he has forwarded to the city clerk of Munising an opinion that local governments, by proper resolution of their governing bodies, may decide whether polls in the November general election should open and close on eastern standard or central standard time. Some Upper Peninsula areas have adopted central time, although eastern standard is the official time of Michigan.

Warships Are Not Intended for War, Roosevelt Claims

BY MAX BOYD

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt told a cheering crowd of shipyard workers today that the warships on which they were working were being built "not to go to war but to keep us at peace."

Visiting Philadelphia to deliver tonight the first of five political speeches in which he has said he would answer a program of "falsification" by his opposition in the presidential campaign, Mr. Roosevelt first drove through streets lined with tens of thousands of spectators to nearby plants manufacturing defense equipment.

For mile after mile through Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., men, women and children stood three, four and five deep along the president's route. Cheers rolled along through the throng as the motorcade passed, and the way through Philadelphia soon was littered with confetti and waste paper thrown from windows.

Work Ahead of Time

To thousands of workers in overalls at the New York Shipbuilding company's plant in Camden, Mr. Roosevelt said through a loud speaker system:

"I want to convey to you my thanks and the thanks of the United States government for the great work you are doing in this yard. These ships are not just on order but are being built.

"The ships, thanks to all you are doing, are four to six months ahead of time. They are being built, as you know, not to go to war but to keep us at peace. So all I can say is, thanks, and keep up the good work and keep up the speed."

A worker yelled: "Give it to him tonight Frankie! The president smiled and waved.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement that the warships were not being built for war but for peace came within 24 hours after Wendell Willkie the Republican presidential nominee had said that, if the president's promises to keep the country out of war were no better than some others he had made, then "the boys might as well be on the transports now."

LAVAL FAVORS GERMAN PLANS

Cooperation With Axis Aim of Envoys From Berlin

(By The Associated Press)

Rome, Oct. 23 (AP) — An axis move to prevent France from falling again under the influence of Great Britain—possibly to be used as a battlefield for a British land offensive against Germany — was reported tonight as Adolf Hitler's aim in negotations with French Vice Premier Pierre Laval.

Amid tight official silence, foreign circles here heard the Nazi fuehrer sounded out Laval on a three-point plan for "collaboration" between France and the Rome-Berlin axis powers.

1. Laval would have still greater power in France, although the ader Premier Marshal Philippie Petain, World war "hero of Verdun," would remain as the governmental figurehead.

2. French functionaries would be allowed to resume their administrative posts in the German-occupied area, including Paris.

3. Germany would aid in France's "reconstruction."

Whether military collaboration was envisaged as reported abroad could not be confirmed here.

Foreign observers pointed out, however, that a settlement would automatically further German war plans against Britain by tending to avert unrest in the conquered republic.

Separate Italian parleys with the French were forecast after completing of negotiations undertaken by Hitler. Italian support of any German offer was taken for granted, since Hitler and Premier Mussolini are understood to have agreed on this point at their recent Brenner Pass meeting.

Five Die In Fire At Linwood Beach

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 23, (AP)—Doris Rogers, 13, tonight became the fifth member of her family to die from burns received when flames swept their Linwood Beach home Tuesday.

Only the father, Gaylord Rogers, survives. He was not at home when the fire took place.

The mother, Mrs. Gaylord Rogers, 37, died today of burns suffered when a kerosene can exploded and enveloped the home and its occupants in flames early Tuesday morning. The other victims were Mary, 15; Edward, 2, and the 20-day-old baby, Dessa Rogers.

NAZI INVASION SQUELCHED BY BRITISH RAIDS

AIR FORCE HOLDING FUTURE DESTINY OF BRITAIN

(By The Associated Press)

London, Oct. 23—A great victory in a six-week long aerial counter-offensive that smashed a full-dress German attempt at invasion was claimed officially by the British today and put down as one more historic defense of these islands.

Through its news service the air ministry told the story—how British bombers had doggedly ridden the air over a 2,000-mile Nazi front, alternately attacking and observing, until the German invasion fleet had been dispersed at last and German invasion springboards had been wrecked from Narvik, Norway, to Bordeaux, far to the south in France.

Instrument of Destiny

It was the first such sweeping success yet claimed against the peril that long has lain across the channel, and it was accompanied by these other declarations intended to show that the royal air force was developing quietly into an instrument of destiny for Britain:

1. A claim, also made by the air ministry, that a fifth of all the Nazis' productive capacity for war had been affected by British bombs which night upon night have fallen from the far interior of Germany to the German-held French coastline.

2. The statement of Captain Harold Balfour, air undersecretary, that the position achieved by the air arm, however unspectacular it might seem, was "one of the great victories of the war."

Americans Help

Balfour, in a speech, cited the growing internationalism of the RAF—mentioning that United States, Polish, Czech and French pilots daily were fighting alongside British aviators—and declared that never was there a force more challenging to "the Nazi evil."

British pilots brought back stories of concentrations of German troops and aircraft "in every available port of harbor," and from Narvik to Bordeaux the RAF went out on a continuing mission of harassment and vigilance. Each day, meantime, saw more and more imposing arrivals (of Nazi men and materials) until "hundreds of barges and other war equipment were assembled in Antwerp, Calais, Dunkerque, Osten, Nieuport and Havre."

Troop Barges Ready

The Germans were getting ready—with small warships, with 150-foot self-propelled barges each able to carry two trainloads of men. They had commandeered every available barge of more than 500 tons and great numbers of workmen fitted out these craft to carry tanks and guns readily.

At hand, too, were German submarines. At one time and in a single harbor—Havre—45 big merchant ships lay ready. Inland, the Germans quickly threw up new aircraft shelters; railroad trains sped urgently back and forth between Germany and the low countries.

The assertion that 20 per cent of the Germans' productive capacity had been touched by British bombers was attributed by the ministry to an informed foreign industrialist.

Father Is Charged With Attempting To Murder Daughter, 18

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 23 (AP)—Joseph Bobeck, 44, was ordered held under $10,000 bond for circuit court trial by Municipal Judge Milton F. Cooney on a charge of attempting to murder his 18-year-old daughter, Josephine, last Sept. 20.

The daughter testified she was shot in the leg when she intervened in a dispute between her estranged parents. Her father, she said, had gone to her mother's home and threatened her with a pistol.

Italian Bombing Of American Oil Plants Protested

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—The United States formally protested to Italy today against the bombing of American oil properties in neutral Saudi Arabia.

The bombing occurred last Saturday.

The protest did not apply to the bombing of American oil properties on the island of Bahrein, off the mainland of Saudi Arabia, because that is a British protectorate.

WILLKIE BOOKS EASTERN TALKS

Final Swing to Midwest Will Wind Up GOP Nominee's Tour

BY WILLIAM B. ARDERY

Aboard Willkie Train, Oct. 23 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie returned to the populous east today for an intensive four days of campaigning before making a final swing into the midwest.

While President Roosevelt arranged his first designated "political" talk of the campaign at Philadelphia, the Republican presidential nominee scheduled addresses tonight in the Bronx, at Manhattan center and before the New York Herald Tribune forum. First he had a dinner engagement on his train with Alfred E. Smith, 1928 Democratic presidential nominee.

In a major Chicago address last night, Willkie called on the president to "tell the people" whether he (Willkie) had "falsified the record" in contending the chief executive had broken 1932 Democratic platform pledges.

Willkie asserted the president's "promise to keep our boys out of foreign wars is no better than his promise to balance the budget, they are already practically on the transports."

The Republican candidate, who has traveled almost 17,000 miles from coast to coast, will campaign through Pennsylvania and Ohio cities tomorrow, winding up at Akron in the evening. He will swing back to upstate New York Friday and then campaign in eastern Pennsylvania.

After a series of speeches in Queens and Brooklyn Saturday, Willkie will devote the final week before election to Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware. His last big address will be in New York Nov. 2.

Fur-Seal Killing Agreement To Be Abrogated By Japs

BY J. C. STARK

Washington, Oct. 23, (AP)—Japan's treaty relations with the United States were altered further today by Tokyo's notice of abrogation of a 1911 four-power convention for the protection of fur seals in certain areas of the Pacific.

Officials long have known of Japan's dissatisfaction with the agreement, but the sudden notice of termination without prior discussion was regarded as another sign of tension between the two countries.

Like the commercial treaty of the same year which the United State abrogated after Japan's attack on China, the fur sealing convention requires one year's notice for termination.

The Tokyo announcement said proposals for revisions would be submitted.

Secretary Hull said the notice had not yet been received here and that there had been no official advance intimation that Japan contemplated such action.

In 1926, however, Japan raised the question of revision but after lengthy discussions no action was taken.

Other parties to the agreement were Great Britain and Russia. It bound them to prevent the killing, capturing or pursuit of fur seals in the waters of the north Pacific.

Michigan Republican Leaders Ask Willkie To Hit State Again

Lansing, Oct. 23, (AP)—Attempts are being made to induce Wendell L. Willkie to return to Michigan during his presidential campaign, Leslie B. Butler, Republican state chairman, said today.

Butler said the candidate had been asked to return to the state to plead for the support of organized labor, but that he was "not too hopeful" Willkie would come.

Willkie toured Michigan three weeks ago, making his principal speech at a women's convention in Detroit.

Butler said Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney, who was a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, may return to Michigan to speak again on behalf of Willkie. Dewey spoke last week at Saginaw.

The Democratic nominee for the vice presidency, Henry A. Wallace, will come to Michigan tomorrow for a trip through the state, speaking in behalf of his candidacy. He will arrive at Grand Rapids at 8:40 a. m. and after crossing the state will depart from Detroit about midnight for Philadelphia.

REPLIES OVER RADIO

New York, Oct. 23. (AP)—Wendell Willkie said tonight he would reply to President Roosevelt's Philadelphia address in a speech to be broadcast over the NBC Red network from Erie, Pa., from 12 noon to 12:30 p. m. (EST) tomorrow (Thursday).

New Deal Crackpots Rapped By Al Smith

BY SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, whom Franklin D. Roosevelt called "the Happy Warrior" in 1928, tonight termed the new deal "the greatest aggregation of crackpots that ever gathered in any one country in the history of the world."

Making the first of five speeches in behalf of Republican presidential nominee Wendell L. Willkie, Smith, who was the Democratic party standard-bearer in 1928, said that if the new deal had "obeyed the sacred promise" of the 1932 campaign" there would be no excuse for any one of us Democrats to be in the Academy of Music tonight."

Smith was given a tremendous ovation by the crowd that filled the Brooklyn auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 2,100. His sallies at the new deal brought frequent laughter; Smith charged the new deal with appealing to "prejudice" and to "bigotry" and said "the chief apostle, the occupant of the White House, is himself the greatest offender."

Mrs. Willkie was on the platform as Smith spoke.

"I went around this country 12 years ago" Smith said, "The Lord knows that I met an awful lot of people that hated me. I could tell the way they looked at me, but outside of burning crosses along the line of the railroad tracks, they treated me courteously. I was always safe.

"Tell me what happened in this country that a lovely American lady like Mrs. Willkie cannot be in the company of her husband in a crusade to save this country without being spattered with eggs and having her clothing destroyed. I will tell you what it is. It is the appeal to prejudice, the appeal to bigotry, the setting-up of class against class that has emanated for the last seven and a half years from the new deal, and the chief apostle, the occupant of the White House, is himself the greatest offender."

Smith charged the new deal "publicity bureau" had "been active with the smear pot" in an effort to create "an atmosphere that made Wendell Willkie a bigot."

On the train to New York Smith had said in an interview that "war is an important issue" in the campaign, and added he shared "a general belief among people that the new deal is trying to get us into war."

Peace With China And Great Britain Sought By Japan

London, Oct. 23. (AP) — Diplomatic sources reported today the Japanese, pleased by the ease with which they had virtually taken over French Indo-China, had offered new and easier terms for a quick peace to the Chinese leader Chiang Kai-Shek.

These were the terms as they were understood by informants here:

The Yangtze delta to be demilitarized.

Five provinces in north China to form an autonomous state under Chinese sovereignty but Japan to have full economic control.

Recognition by China of the independence of Manchukuo.

Japanese concession to be established in all Chinese ports.

A report also was current during the day that Japan was seeking a new formula for peace relations with Britain.

Cortelyou, Former Cabinet Man, Dies

Huntington, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP)—George Bruce Cortelyou, Sr., 78, who rose from stenography to hold three cabinet posts, only to leave politics to become one of the nation's outstanding financiers, died today.

Death followed by five day a heart attack suffered by the former confidante of three presidents who retired in 1935 from the presidency of the Consolidated Gas company of New York after building it into a vast and highly important utility.

He died in his sleep. His wife, the former Lily Morris Hinds of Hempstead, N. Y., found him dead in bed as she went to awaken him for another quiet day on his 10-acre estate, Harbor Lights, which overlooks Huntington Bay.

Besides his widow, Cortelyou left three sons and a daughter.

The distinction of inventing the gasoline motor car is shared by the United States, Germany and France.

PEACE PLEDGED BY ROOSEVELT

"I Love A Good Fight," President Declares In Philadelphia

BY MAX BOYD

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt, accusing his opposition of importing propaganda methods of the "dictator countries" to convince the public he wished to lead the country into war, said tonight that "it is for peace I shall labor all the days of my life."

In a political speech broadcast from Philadelphia's Convention Hall, where he was renominated in 1936 and where Wendell L. Willkie was named the Republican standard bearer this summer, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I consider it a public duty to answer falsifications with facts I will not pretend that I find this an unpleasant duty. I am an old campaigner, and I love a good fight."

The first of five political addresses with which the president is winding up his second re-election campaign, the speech came at the end of a day in which tens of thousands of people in Philadelphia and neighboring Camden, N. J., had turned out to see the chief executive on his way to defense manufacturing plants.

Mr. Roosevelt accused the opposition of making numerous "deliberate falsifications" against him in the campaign, and said one "outrageously false charge" had been made "to strike terror into the hearts of our citizens."

BUYS FIRE TRUCK

Menominee — The city council last night approved the $8,246 fire truck bid of Peter Persch & Son of Kenosha. The bid, on a junior aerial ladder truck, was $9,880 for the truck plus $100 for the aluminum ladder, less $1,300 allowance on two old trucks to be turned in by the fire department and 5 per cent for cash.

A resolution introduced by Ald. Frank J. Schick, provided that the $1,500 which was set up in this year's budget for a new truck and the $1,300 allowance on the two 20-year-old Reo trucks be used as a down payment, the balance to be borrowed from a local bank at 4 per cent to be repaid in three years. A total of $2,200 will be paid yearly from the budget.

Schick told the council that the fire committee and fire chief had investigated fire trucks and equipment for more than three months.

CANDIDATES FOR COUNCIL

Marquette — William J. Wiseman, incumbent seeking reelection as First precinct supervisor, and S. Victor Hytinen, candidate for city commissioner, filed nomination petitions yesterday for the municipal election Monday, December 2.

Hytinen, who resides at 1627 Fitch avenue, will oppose the incumbent, John Tierney, whose term expires this year. Wiseman, 737 Champion street, has served several terms as supervisor and to date is unopposed for relection.

VENETIAN BLINDS MADE

Iron Mountain—Over 120 venetian blinds have been completed by 36 boys on an NYA project in the Iron Mountain high school and the Kingsford vocational building. The blinds which are to be used in the schools are 6 feet wide and 7 feet long.

School furniture has been repaired and over 40 jumping hurdles have been made. The construction of additional blinds and cabinets is planned during the winter months.

TO MEET IN IRON MOUNTAIN

Iron Mountain—Abbott M. Fox, Iron Mountain, president of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, has called a meeting of the bureau's executive committee, to be held at the Dickinson hotel here November 8, at 10 a. m., Central Standard time. Bids on the printing of the bureau's 1941 Lure Book and a fishing directory, which will supplement the Lure Book, will be opened and contracts awarded for printing them.

LATE SEASON SEEN

Ironwood—Activity on the Ashland ore docks indicates a whirlwind to the 1940 navigation season which may require steaming ore when the cold weather sets in, according to reports from the Wisconsin city. Eight vessels were loaded at the docks over the last week end and the spurt resembled one of a week previous when nine ships were loaded, sending receipts over the 5,000,000 ton mark.

It is predicted at Ashland that the mark of 5,341,939 tons shipped in 1939 will be surpassed and that the mark of 5,651,879 tons shipped in 1937 will be seriously threatened. In some shipping circles it has been predicted that bulk freighters, carrying mostly ore, would operate through December 5.

High Officers Of Michigan National Guard Fail To Pass Physical Tests

Detroit, Oct. 23 (AP)—Seventeen high-ranking officers of the Michigan National Guard, including Brig. Gen. Thomas Colladay of Flint, commanding officer of the Michigan contingent of the 32nd Division, will be retired for failure to pass recent physical examinations, the Detroit News reported today.

Col. LeRoy Pearson of Lansing, chief of staff of the 32nd Division for ten years, also will be forced into retirement and replaced by a successor named by the war department, the newspaper said.

Colladay became the Michigan National Guard's ranking officer last April, succeesing Brig. Gen. Heinrich A. Pickert of Detroit, and has served in the guard 25 years.

Other officers to whom notification of retirement was sent today from Lansing, the News said, included the following:

Lieut. Col. Roy J. Singlinger, Lansing, purchasing and disbursing officer for Michigan.

Lieut. Col. John I. Croshaw, Grand Rapids, member of the adjutant general's staff.

Lieut. Col. George L. Olson, of Grand Haven, executive officer of the 126th Infantry.

Lieut. Col. Mallery M. Kincaid, Grand Rapids, commander of the Third Battalion, 126th Infantry.

Maj. Mathew E. Soller, Ypsilanti, surgeon, 32nd Division special troops.

Capt. Marco Hanson, Belding, commanding officer of Company H, 107th Medical.

Capt. Ben M. Barendse, Grand Rapids, adjutant of the 126th Infantry.

Capt. Lawrence G. Covell, Muskegon, commanding officer Company G, 126th Infantry.

Lieut. John A. Miedma, Grand Rapids, 126th Infantry Service company.

HITLER TALKS WITH SPAIN'S HIGH DICTATOR

gime a part of Paris—ostensibly for the purpose of returning the seat of government there.

Naval bases which would fall to the axis would include those at Dakar, capital of French West Africa, Toulon, on the Mediterranean coast of continental France; Casablanca, in French Morocco; and Bizerte, in Tunisia.

The air bases would include those in both north Africa and Syria—strategically located for a possible drive against Egypt and the Near East. The French navy's job would be to defend those bases against attack by the British—as it did at Dakar.

The agreement, expected soon to replace the existing armistice arrangement, also would bring about the release of all French war prisoners.

Despite Vice Premiere Pierre Laval's anxiety for a definite peace settlement, it was said Petain and others of the cabinet refused flatly to pay the price of allying France with the axis against Britain.

Philippines Will Be Protected Against Any Attack By U. S.

BY ADWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, Oct. 23. (AP)—The army today ordered substantial reinforcing of the slender aerial defenses of the Philippines, while Secretary of the Navy Knox declared, in response to reporters' questions, that the Far Eastern ward of the United States would be defended against any attack.

Two pursuit squadrons comprising 30 or more fighting planes and some 320 officers and men will sail shortly for Manila from San Francisco, the war department announced.

The army made no reference to the tension with Japan, but Knox told a press conference that the United States was "not indifferent toward any territory under the American flag." The semi-autonomous Philippine commonwealth is not to be completely independent until 1946.

"We can defend anything," Knox said crisply when he was reminded that some military men had expressed doubt that the islands, 7,000 miles distant, could be held against a full dress invasion.

To a question whether the islands would be defended if attacked, he said: "Yes, as long as they are under our flag."

ROAD TO FREE AMERICA SEEN

Bronx Crowd Applauds GOP Nominee In Rap At New Deal Chaos

BY WILLIAM B. ARDERY

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie returned tonight to the heart of the home territory of Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn and told a cheering crowd in the Bronx Coliseum that the best way to prevent the proscription of any group in America is to take the country "off the road to inflation and financial chaos."

Before a crowd estimated by police at 15,000, Willkie declared "a great majority of Americans have decided again to be free—free from the domination and the control of a cynical government that seeks to get American citizens to vote the way it wants."

Thousands of persons lined the streets, jamming the sidewalks and slowing his motorcade from the Mott Haven station to the Coliseum.

Willkie said that in New York "where 73 percent of us are of foreign descent," people knew that the greatest hope for all groups "is to make a prosperous America."

He said oppression against classes always has grown from economic depression, and argued that bigotry always has arisen in nations which "have gone down the road of bankruptcy or of inflation or depression."

Willkie came into the populous east for an intensive four days of campaigning before making a final swing into the midwest.

A swift auto ride brought Willkie to the Manhattan center in midtown New York, where he addressed a crowd estimated by Police Lieutenant Joseph Gross at 8,000.

The meeting was under the auspices of the Democrats for Willkie Organization.

War Fear Turns Sentiment

EVERY unbiased authority in the nation now agrees that there is a tremendous swing of sentiment to back the candidacy of Wendell L. Willkie for the presidency at the November fifth election. The ever mounting avalanche of distrust of the good faith of the New Deal's campaign for a third term for President Roosevelt, lies, unquestionably, in the growing fear among the people of America that the president has made secret commitments to foreign nations that will force the United States into the European war.

Wendell Willkie, in his address in Chicago on Tuesday night, voiced that feeling when he boldly asserted, referring to President Roosevelt's promise to keep us out of war, "If his promise to keep us out of foreign wars is no better than his promise to balance the budget, the boys are already practically on the transports".

And indicating that the fear so boldly expressed by Candidate Willkie and now growing in the hearts of anxious people throughout the nation, at the same moment Mr. Willkie was delivering his address in Chicago, the adjutant general of the Maryland National Guard, speaking in Washington, expressed it as his conviction that the war department does not intend to release the National Guard from federal service at the end of one year, as now promised.

Faced with these facts it is little wonder that a determination is taking form in the hearts and minds of the great mass of people in the land, that because the New Deal has failed utterly to keep its promises to solve the economic problems at home, it cannot be trusted to keep any promise made today, to keep us out of war.

Both Are Pledged

BOTH Governor Luren D. Dickinson and Murray D. Van Wagoner have given pledges to maintain the present non-political setup in the conservation department.

The two gubernatorial candidates are quoted as being satisfied with the seven-member staggered commission, which has been able to direct the conservation program in the state unhampered by the demands of politicians, who seek jobs and other privileges for themselves and their friends.

The promises made by the two gubernatorial candidates are reassuring to conservationists. But it is the legislature that makes the laws, and it is vitally necessary to elect to the house and senate only those candidates who may be relied upon to advance the conservation program in the state.

Drivers at Fault

THE large number of lives lost each year as a result of automobile accidents, and mainly due to the fault of motorists, has prompted some commentators to say that the term "accident" in such cases has ceased its meaning and the term "murder" should be applied. At least many believe the latter term is a better description.

There seems to be proof that many motorists are careless of the death they bring to themselves and to their fellows—particularly their fellows. This carelessness which has been the means of so many deaths is shown by statistics. From 1920 to 1937 the death rate as a result of automobile accidents increased every year. Indeed, the American motorist has been called the most desperate gambler in the world with the most precious possession—human life. Since the largest percentage of automobile accident fatalities result from speeding, this statement is largely a truth.

Looked at from every angle, most of the guilt can be placed on the driver. The automobile itself is the safest it has ever been in the history of automobile engineering. Its center of gravity has been lowered, tires are scientifically designed so as to allow a minimum of skidding, and brakes are superior to any that ever have been devised. The automobile's mechanism has been improved, and as an engineering product it is near perfect.

There are many cities in the United States which approximate a population of 32,000—about the same number likely to be reported killed in automobile accidents in 1940. If one of these cities were completely wiped out by some natural disaster the event would be hailed as one of the world's greatest tragedies, and a report of it would make front-page material for every newspaper in this and other countries. Yet, annual statistics on fatal automobile accidents receive only a brief mention, for the situation is taken as a matter of course.

Deaths as a result of automobile accidents cannot be told in numbers. They do not include the many thousands injured for life, their earning capacity reduced or erased, and the unknown number of dependents who suffer in some way as a consequence. It is this larger picture that stirred the country to more rigid rules for motorists and more drastic laws for violators. It has even been suggested that the money fine be discontinued, except in mild cases, and in lieu thereof that courts impose jail sentences of no short duration.

A lower automobile accident death rate is gratifying, but this should not encourage drivers to increase their speed in an indirect ratio.

Wake Up, Consumers!

CONSUMER patience should be reached by State Ballot No. 4, the November referendum on the dentists' anti-price advertising act of 1939.

We quote an editorial by Stuart Perry, editor, Adrian Daily Telegram:

"Some time ago we commented on a bill pending at Lansing which would forbid watchmakers from advertising their prices. Another bill (State Proposal No. 4) would forbid dentists from advertising prices, and still another of the same sort would apply to chiropodists.

Now comes a bill which would forbid barbers from using any advertising sign—even the time honored barber's pole.

"It would take a vivid and far-reaching imagination to figure out any possible reason for such a prohibition. Is a barber's pole 'unethical'? Not that we can see. Is it detrimental in any way to the public? Not at all; on the contrary a great convenience. Is there any reason why a barber should not be allowed to advertise his place of business the same as a druggist, a clothier or a grocer? Again our imagination fails."

Referring to the trend to restrict competition by legislative acts, Mr. Perry concludes: "The idea of everybody trying to protect himself by making it hard for others to enter his line of business, and by preventing his competitors from going after business, is being carried too far. If this sort of thing goes on it will end with every trade being a sort of guild with limited numbers, fixed prices and regulated methods.

"Such legislation is the worth of pressure groups, seeking their own ends. The public does not want such laws. The public, however, pays no attention. Some day public opinion will wake up and a lot of such laws will be repealed"?

A vote of "No" on State Ballot No. 4 would put the brakes on anti-consumer legislation of this type in Michigan. The public has its opportunity on November 5.

THEY WOO OUR VOTES
(Iron Mountain News)

One candidate for governor has finished his work in the upper peninsula and another is about to pay it a visit. Mr. Van Wagoner was well received and delivered his message to large numbers of voters. There is a kindly feeling toward him in the district because of the manner in which he has fallen in with plans to have, in road construction, first things put first.

As he has been the beneficiary of largely increased federal funds made available for highway work, notable progress has been made with construction of the trunks. As under similar circumstance it would have occurred under any administration, there is disposition to attach undue importance to his part. But, nevertheless, the feeling toward him is friendly. If his campaign could be divorced from the national campaign he would fare better in them than will be the case.

Governor Dickinson will shortly be in the peninsula to appear in important cities that Senator Vandenberg has not been able, in the short time at his disposal, to visit. Their schedules have been laid out so that between them they will bring the campaign of their party to important voting centers.

The Governor is going to have a fine reception. It will reflect, to no small extent, increased confidence in him arising from the condition that at the Republican convention he ended any doubt on the point as to whether he is his own man, and left no doubt about who is the strongest figure in the party.

Interest in his visit is enhanced by the condition that at no previous time has he campaigned in the peninsula. There will be, naturally, much more keenness to see and hear him than can be expected when the man who is to be seen and heard has made himself familiar by frequent speaking tours.

THE SWASTIKA OVER NORWAY
(Milwaukee Journal)

With increasing severity the Nazis dictate the terms of Norwegian life and labor. To forestall any serious outbreak of resentment, the conquerors simultaneously order the Norwegians to turn in every gun, sword, dagger, some kinds of knives, and they announce prison punishment and even death sentences for violators of the order.

What is happening in Norway is part of the methodical enslavement of Europe by the self-appointed master race. It is an enslavement of mind and conscience and now of body.

In Norway, only recently one of the freest countries on earth, youth will no longer be allowed to determine its own future. Nor will parents be allowed to choose trades or occupations for young people.

Henceforth, by Hitler decree, young Norwegians may enter only the professions and occupations of their parents. Except that, if the Nazis so order, they may forcibly be removed from industry to industry and district to district.

If there be among American labor leaders a few remaining skeptics who have doubted whether American workers would lost much under a defeat of the American system, let them study these edicts. Let all of us ponder these rules imposed by the Nazis on conquered peoples.

This is no enslavement in the figurative sense. It is literal slavery, not even slavery to the nation to which peoples belong. It is slavery to Hitler and his Nazis and the self-anointed German super-race as envisaged by the Fuehrer's fanatic teaching.

As in the case of Poland and Denmark and France, a large number of Norwegians workers are to be transported to Germany to work as ordered by the masters. Beginning Monday, practically all freedom of movement of Norwegian workers and peasants will be suppressed.

This is the "new Europe" of today and the "new world" of tomorrow that the Nazis are trying to forge with bomb and bayonet.

How pitiful now sound such slogans of yesterday as the one about Germany only wishing to bring a few Sudetens back into the fatherland!

The screen of lies has blown away. Stark naked the Nazi way of life stands for all the unconquered world to judge. It is an appalling spectacle.

Extreme ugliness will keep you out of the army, which may be an item the War Department overlooks. Scare the enemy to death and save lead costs.

Mexico, D. F., Mexico—A solid, sober, Mexican general with the neck and shoulders of a wrestler—an ex-polo player with a liking for big cigars and the writings of Thucydides—is coming to the United States some time before Dec. 1.

It will have to be before that time, for he is Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, and he has a date that day to become president of Mexico.

He will need both the broad shoulders and the deliberate manner. On the shoulders will rest Mexico. On the unruffled manner depends the question of whether he can rally to him a people badly split, an unknown number—possibly a majority—of whom supported his presidential rival, Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan. They will resent the "imposition" of the government candidate in a turbulent election which certainly was not democratic.

—TAKES MIDDLE OF THE ROAD—

As a "middle-of-the-roader," Avila Camacho says, "I am not a socialist. I am a democrat." Yet he takes over a leftist revolutionary program.

He is the first Mexican president in many years to say publicly, "I am a believer. I am a Catholic." Yet he must enforce a constitution which many Catholics have believed bitterly prejudicial to their religious establishment.

He says, "I wish to restore confidence in investments, first Mexican confidence, then outside confidence." Yet he faces the unsolved oil expropriation problem which has shaken that confidence.

He says, "I shall not govern for a circle of friends, but to serve all." Yet even the idealistic Cardenas has not been able to break completely through the Mexican tradition that public officials automatically feather their own nests.

To reconcile all these discordant elements, including the still-active element which voted for Almazan, is a job for a solid man planted firmly in the middle of the road. Avila Camacho's whole life suggests that he may be the man.

As his supporters say, he is "muy mucho hombre"—very much man.

—CLOSE FRIEND OF CARDENAS—

He is young for a president—43. Born the son of a Puebla rancher on April 24, 1897, in Teziutlan, Avila Camacho's whole like has been passed in the army.

Oddly, as a boy he went to school with Lombardo Toledano, intellectual left-wing labor leader whose collaboration he has already rejected, though he had his support in the election.

Avila Camacho is and has been for years the close personal friend and army comrade of Lazaro Cardenas whom he is to succeed as president.

His long military career began in 1913 with entry into the military school at Mexico City. No sooner had he entered than Huerta rebelled against Madero. When the cadets were called to support Huerta, Avila Camacho left the school rather than do so.

It was dangerous to remain in the city after that, but his aging father, nearing blindness, was there for treatment and young Avila Camacht remained with him, donning girl's clothing to lead the old man through the streets to the Clinic.

Next year young Avila Camacho joined a band against Huerta, and for six years followed that campaign. He served under Cardenas, and by 1920 became something of a trouble-shooter. Cardenas sent him in 1920 to quell a revolt of Yaqui Indians in Sonora.

He was given two nasty jobs at opposite ends of the political spectrum. In 1927 he had to break the Cristero rising against anti-church decrees, and two years later he had to "pacify" Tabasco, where Governor Canabal was enforcing the same decrees with savage intensity.

Both jobs were done with a minimum of bloodshed, and under positive orders not to employ the "ley de fuga" under which prisoners are encouraged to try escape, then shot down while in the attempt.

As divisional general and secretary of war in 1938, Avila Camacho did much to mechanize and modernize the army, drawing freely on American models and aid. He is friendly toward the United States.

At the time of the Yaqui campaign, the general met and married a Jalisco girl of great beauty and charm. They are childless, but have adopted a handsome blond son, now 15. The Avila Camacho home life is definitely devoted and inviolate, causing mild wonderment in Mexican political circles accustomed to less rigid standards.

On being declared elected, Avila Camacho publicly listed his property holdings, an unusual step, as a large ranch in the federal district near the capital, and a quiet white-walled house in the fashionable Lomas de Chapultepec suburb.

Hollywood—Behind the screen: Movie production is at its lowest point in many years, with only about 25 companies actually working. This doesn't herald an entertainment depression, though. Most of the studios have pushed along in advance of their schedules and now are getting ready for a winter boom.

Nevertheless there's grumbling all along the line, from top stars on enforced layoffs to extras whose total earnings this month will be about $100,000 under par. Martin Greene says things are getting so tough that pretty soon nobody will be paid twice what he's worth.

Behind The Scenes

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—To say that inner Democratic chiefs are alarmed over the campaign trend in the crucial Middle West is putting it mildly. They are scared stiff.

The Gallup poll only confirmed the bad news, which had been pouring in for days in agitated messages from local campaign leaders. All screeched the same demand: "Get the President to climb off his lofty pedestal, come out west in person and start talking like a candidate for office. If he doesn't it will be just too bad."

Some of the more candid politicos also said the Midwestern campaign organizations were honeycombed with incompetents and stuffed shirts who weren't worth the powder to sink them. Mayor Ed Kelly stormed into the National Committee offices in Chicago and ordered a complete housecleaning of the dawdling Speakers' Bureau.

"Get some campaigners," he directed, "who will talk about Roosevelt and principles and not about themselves and how important they are."

Plain-talking Governor John Townsend of Indiana sent word to Washington that Roosevelt alone could provide the spark needed to set the campaign going; that in a two-week speaking tour in a half dozen states, he had found the people feeling that if their votes were wanted they were worth being wooed.

Above all came the warning that the great mass of voters were profoundly fearful of war. This was rated the overshadowing issue of the campaign, and the reason for the large proportion of undecided voters in every state poll, ranging from 8 to as high as 22 per cent.

Privately, the Democratic leaders view these large doubtful blocs as an undertow that may prove to be a tidal wave of disaster on election day. Four years ago, when Roosevelt landslided the Midwest, the polls revealed no such proportion of doubtful voters.

—ALOOF FDR—

Not in years was the inner Democratic command so unanimous on any point as on the urgent need for Roosevelt to take off his coat and get busy. In person, in long distance calls, letters and floods of telegrams they pleaded, argued and demanded that he come west.

But he stuck doggedly to his determination not to travel farther than twelve hours away from Washington. He agreed to make as many political speeches on the air as time could be bought for, but he wouldn't budge from his 12-hour limit.

The pleas for a trip to Chicago and Indianapolis were almost tearful. Mayor Kelly promised a turn-out of a half million people in Chicago, and Governor Townsend pledged 100,000 in Indianapolis any hour of the day or night. The heat is still on for this trip, and Roosevelt may yet decide to make it.

Note — Credit Senator Jimmy Byrnes, smart little South Carolinian, with persuading Senator Sheridan Downey, No. 1 congressional Townsendite, to take the air immediately after Senator Hiram Johnson's pro-Willkie declaration and endorse the third term. It took several weeks of the hardest kind of pleading to bring Downey round to crossing swords with his fellow-Californian, with whom he agrees on isolationism.

—WIN WITH WILLKIE—

Almost — but not quite — did President Roosevelt's chauffeur wear a Willkie button when he called at the White House to drive the President to the train.

The President was about to leave for Hyde Park, and chauffeur Montey Snyder was warming up the motor of the big touring car in the White House garage. Then he put on his overcoat, ready to go.

A flash of color caught his eye. He looked down at the lapel of his coat. "Win With WILLKIE"! He snatched the button off and looked around for the culprit.

He spotted among the onlookers the grinning face of George Klenk, chauffeur to Sumner Welles. No doubt about it. Klenk was the joker.

—PROFESSOR MOLEY'S HAM—

When Raymond Moley, erstwhile New Dealer, appeared for Willkie in Richmond, Va., the crowning touch of the meeting was a ham act.

To indicate that the farmers were turning from Roosevelt, managers of the meeting arranged to have a Virginia farmer step up to the platform and present Moley with a token of rural regard. But there was a titter in the crowd when the token proved to be a ham.

Moley looked a little sheepish when he took the Virginia ham into his arms. The farmer had described it as "the emblem of our party".

The titter was even stronger, however, when Moley, in his address to the "Democrats for Willkie", attempted to say that a great force was sweeping out of the West to rid Washington of its New Deal crackpots. "A great wind," he said, "has come out of the West."

THE ONION

Frowned upon in social circles,
Even sneered at by some folks,
This wholesome bulb has been the point
Of many nasty jokes.

The young beaux shun this lusty viand,
The damosels permit
Themselves no sniff nor sound nor touch,
Not even sight of it.

Strong son of the open fields,
I defend you, pungent orb,
And shoulder all the blows for you,
My spirit may absorb.

I want you green in springtime,
I want you sliced in fall,
I want you in the Irish Stew,
But not at Snyder's ball.

Ah, now 'tis out, my loyalty
Is wormy at the peth,
For when I must appear to speak,
You're too strong on my breath.

KIDNAPER OF CHILD TO DIE

Missouri Governor Indicates No Clemency for Prisoner

Jefferson City, Mo., (U.P.)—Execution of Oscar Ralph Ashworth, self-convicted kidnaper who has lingered in the death house of the state penitentiary here since September 1, 1938, is scheduled for midnight the morning of October 25, barring executive clemency or another last-minute legal move.

If the sentence is not postponed, Ashworth will be one of the few men executed on a plea of guilty of kidnaping.

The 39-year-old garage mechanic and former WPA worker, father of three small children, was given the death sentence by Circuit Judge Ferd J. Frankenhoff of St. Joseph, Mo., after he had confessed the kidnaping of a 7-year-old girl.

Ashworth, arrested in Green Bay, Wis., pleaded guilty and for the mercy of the court. He had served a previous sentence in Nebraska for rape.

He was sentenced on the same day he was returned to the state and late that evening was locked in death row at the prison here.

Last Minute Plea Saved Him

On the night of Nov. 3, 1938, Ashworth was being taken to the lethal gas execution chamber when his lawyers sent word they were bringing a petition appealing Ashworth's case to the State Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court last month declined to grant the appeal. A small glimmer of hope was noted in a statement in the opinion when the court said the case of necessity restricted its review to merely the record of the guilty plea. In the plea, the charge said, it could find no error and no reversible error in the proceedings. The decision, however, added that under the form of pleading used it could not consider such matters as whether Ashworth had proper counsel or whether he had been deprived of his constitutional rights.

It has been indicated that Gov. Lloyd C. Stark will not consider taking action in the case until all legal steps are over. The next legal move may be for a writ of habeas corpus.

Ashworth's wife and the mother of the seven-year-old girl made a futile plea to the governor two years ago.

Spalding Man Killed As Train Hits Truck

One person was killed and another seriously injured Wednesday morning when a Chicago and North Western railroad passenger train struck a coal truck at a crossing at Spalding.

Harry Grondine, 19, of Spalding, passenger in the truck, died a few minutes after the crash at the Pinecrest Sanatorium, Powers.

Russell Sargent, 32, of Spalding, driver of the truck, was critically injured, suffering a possible skull fracture and multiple cuts and bruises about his body. He was transferred to St. Francis hospital, Escanaba.

The crash occurred on old highway US-41, only a few yards from the Spalding depot where the train makes a regular stop. Sheriff Edward J. Reindl of Menominee, said the truck was loaded with coal at the time, and the impact spread coal for 200 yards along the railway right of way. The truck was demolished, he said.

Reindl said that the fireman on the train told him that he observed the truck approaching the crossing at a slow rate of speed. The fireman said he thought the truck was going to stop and that the whistle on the engine was blown as the train approached the crossing, Reindl said.

The train was the Cloverland Special passenger No. 214 and was southbound at the time. A coroner's jury was picked by Coroner Roy Cadieu to view the scene of the accident. Members of the jury were Albert Perry, Sr., Earl Dubois, Odes Fleetwood, Alex Perry, Napoleon LaBonte, and Albert Perry, Jr., all of Spalding.

Harry Grondine was born September 2, 1920 at Spalding and attended the public schools there. He was graduated from the Powers-Spalding high school in 1939, and during his high school course was a popular member of the school band.

He was a member of St. Francis Xavier parish and of the Holy Name society of the church.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Grondine, three brothers, John, Henry and Joseph, and three sisters, Marie, Lucille and Theresa, all at home.

The body was taken to the Boyle undertaking parlors at Bark River to be prepared for burial. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Mendota entertained 700 farmers in the high school auditorium, staged an easter egg hunt for children, and promoted a co-operative public affairs committee for civic organizations of the community.

Ottawa also did its part to promote good relations with the farm community, giving awards for the highest yield of hybrid corn.

Berwyn a Chicago suburb, held an "over 30" softball tournament. Forest Park sent three trucks full of toys to underprivileged children at Christmas time, conducted a base ball school, and chaperoned young people at dances.

Melrose Park held a fathers-sons-and-daughters night. Bloomington sent children to camp, and offered a trophy to encourage youngsters to learn to swim at the Y. M. C. A.

To aid in the beautification of the community, Farmer City Kiwanians planted Paul Scarlet roses all over town. La Salle-Peru members staged a campaign for a new gymnasium for the high school and helped carry an election. Then they discovered the local boys scouts wanted cameras, and they gave them $98.50 to buy the equipment

Kiwanians in the little town of Le Roy helped organize an "American Column" to counteract "fifth column" activities. Streeter provided funds for preventitive dentistry for children, and held a forum on religion at the high school auditorium.

Suburbs Offer Opportunities

Waukegan, on Lake Michigan's shore, needed more life-saving equipment. The Kiwanians bought the city a boat and first-aid materials.

In the suburbs around Chicago, Kiwanis Clubs found a variety of things to do. The Grand-Harlem Club began a "Get a Kid a Job" campaign. Austin conducted week-end outings for boys and girls. Logan Square Kiwanians got interested in the youthful policemen of the school traffic patrol and bought them 35 pair of galoshes. The Oak Park Club also devoted to the welfare of youngsters, started an aviation club for them and coached its members in a minstrel show.

The Rogers Park Kiwanians founded a civic council and sponsored a church loyalty dinner. The North Town group also founded a community council and held a sports show, the proceeds of which went to a fund for underprivileged children.

It was the North Central group that hired a cobbler for the Sexton School. It also provided school equipment. Lake View Kiwanians formed an "Inter-faith Council" for the neighborhood.

L'ANSE PLANS USE OF LANDS

Public Buildings To Be Erected On Delinquent Parcels

Lansing—L'Anse village knows what it wants done with tax delinquent, state-owned lands in its neighborhood, and village recommendations are now being followed in plans for disposal of nearly 300 parcels there that recently reverted to administration of the conservation department's lands division.

Village officials have recommended that about 150 of the parcels be put up for sale. They have asked that more than 100 others be withheld from sale because they are so situated that extension of water lines, sewers and streets to them is difficult and inadvisable.

Of the remaining lots, they are asking title to four of them for a place to build a village garage and equipmnet building. Three more they want for a right of way for a street, sewer and water lines and another for a municipal dock. L'Anse school district has asked for one large parcel near town for use as a school forest. Village officials also recommended razing buildings on four parcels, that are now fire hazards.

The L'Anse suggestions are a sample of recommendations 50 municipalities north of the Muskegon-Bay City line already have filed with the lands division. Besides acquiring reverted properties for such uses as school, park and airport sites directly, the municipalities may arrange trades of state lands for private lands wanted for these public purposes.

Suggestions for disposition of rural reverted lands are to be made in the same way by county land use planning committees. Recommendations are drawn after conference with lands division representatives. When presented, they are checked for acuracy, and the properties examined in the field. Where local recommendations are not in conflict with conservation department policies, it is expected the conservation commission will follow them in selling, withholding and transferring to local governments the tax reverted properties.

GIVES SPACE TO NYA

St. Ignace — The city council here last week agreed to furnish the entire ground floor of the old city hall as quarters for a local project of the Michigan National Youth Administration. The additional space will greatly facilitate the operation of the NYA program in this city, which has been badly handicapped in the past due to insufficient room for its tools and power machinery.

KEYES SPICES GOP MEETING

Brown Promises More of Same Economy Along With Sen. Flynn

A young Dr. Eugene C. Keyes, square chinned, with sleek hair, glib tongue and affable manner took a Republican rally in the William Bonifac Auditorium last night by storm.

His left arm was in a sling as the result of an automobile accident a couple of weeks ago, but this only helped his personality to sparkle.

He, as candidate for lieutenant governor, spiced a program that opened with an accounting of the stewardship of the present state administration by State Auditor Vernon J. Brown, candidate for re-election, and closed with a summanation of the virtues of the state ticket by State Senator Felix H. H. Flynn, candidate for state treasurer.

Old Fashioned Virtues

"The old fashioned farm-bred virtues of honesty, industry, conscientiousness, piety and thrift have done a lot to put the nation ahead in the past, have ever been helpful in private affairs and have proved to be so in the two years of the present state administration, Mr. Brown declared.

He traced the state's fiscal progress from a $30,000,000 deficit to the point where it was "in the black" and had paid $3,000,000 of indebtedness up to the present, during this administration.

"You don't do that by pulling rabbits out of a hat. It comes from careful budgeting and economy. The state can only get ahead financially by spending no more than it takes in," Mr. Brown declared.

"No state can afford any better government than its income will allow."

The financial change came through collection of $11,000,000 more in revenues and cutting administration costs $12,000,000, the auditor declared.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner and Democratic candidate for governor, has asked publicly what was done with $8,000,000 by the present administration. Mr. Brown said that this has gone to relief purposes, to schools and to pay $3,000,000 on the $30,000,000 deficit.

Cites Mackinac Loss

"But what," the auditor general countered, "has become of the $409,000,000 that has gone to the highway department since he took office? That sum is more than the highway department had received in its entire history until the present commissioner took over.

"Of the total $350,000,000 has come from the pockets of Michigan taxpayers and seven million dollars per year has been paid indirectly after going to Washington first."

The slogan, "He Gets Things Done" certainly should be true when he has had that much money to spend, the speaker declared.

"But if he (Van Wagoner) has not gone into debt on road administration, the same can not be said of the operation of the Mackinac straits ferry system. Revenue there last year was $497,800 and operating costs, $693,499," Mr. Brown added.

"We reiterate the same pledge of careful government, industry and integrity that we made two years ago when the Republican administration went into power," Mr. Brown said. "But if you are in favor of wild-cat spending, then vote for someone who is better at it than we are."

Dr. Keyes replied to Democratic attacks on administration of crippled children's funds in the state, saying that although the previous administration had appropriated a million and a half dollars for crippled children's work, the funds had been mismanaged and the administration had run $800,000 in debt. He said that the present administration had appropriated $500,000 for afflicted children and $300,000 for crippled children and had handled more cases on that amount than the previous administration had on the larger appropriation.

Praises Rushton

Such attacks, Dr. Keyes called "hitting under the belt." And he drew a laugh when he declared it was ridiculous to blame Governor Dickinson for the recent poliomyelitis epidemic.

"Polio," he said, "was here long before Dickinson was."

Mr. Flynn praised both Dickinson and U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, commended Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly for saving $178,000 in administrative expenses and Brown for saving $168,000. Herbert J. Rushton of Escanaba, candidate for attorney general, has done a "tremendous" job of collecting the sales tax "from chislers—and there are plenty of them," Senator Flynn said.

Emerson R. Boyles, "non-partisan candidate for the state supreme court, nominated by the Republican party is "a non-partisan candiate on the GOP side," Mr. Flynn reminded.

Art Goulais, secretary of the county Republican committee, was chairman of the meeting and introduced county and district candates. A motion picture featuring Wendell L. Willkie was presented and the meeting closed with an amplified broadcast of Willkie's national radio speech.

Lansing Is Skeptical About Straits Bridge

Lansing—What they're saying around the capitol is that Michigan is as likely to have a bridge over the Straits of Mackinac as it is a new state office building here. And this is intended to mean that neither of them is very likely in the immediate future.

But if one were to take stock in recent developments, it would appear that the bridge idea has the edge so far as possible early fulfillment is concerned. The least that can be said is that some of the obstacles in the way have been surmounted. Experts now say the span is feasible from an engineering standpoint, and congress only recently passed legislation which virtually authorized the state of Michigan to build such a bridge. Permission of the war department is still needed, but that is regarded by backers of the plan as little more than a formality.

The big problem now is one of financing. The tremendous bridge would cost something like $26,000,000, which even the most optimistic supporter admits is a lot of money to raise. However, serious study is being given methods of getting that amount together and retiring the debt out of bridge revenue.

Responsibility for pursuing the idea is vested in the Mackinac Straits Bridge Authority created by the 1934 Michigan legislature. This authority was directed to investigate the feasibility of a bridge or other means of linking the upper and lower peninsulas, and it was authorized to issue tax exempt bonds which, however, must be payable from revenues only. Hence, if the war department were to approve the plan and a means of financing it were to be worked out, there apparently would be nothing to prevent the authority from proceeding to build the bridge.

There are many arguments pro and con as to whether the span is needed and whether it would be practicable. Some of the reasons are:

Arguments For

1. Idea is sound from engineering standpoint.
2. Bridge is necessary for economic reasons.
3. Ferry service is inadequate and certain to become more so as traffic across the straits increases.
4. Delay necessitated by long lines of cars is detrimental to tourist trade.
5. Unbridged water gap between two peninsulas has effect of dividing Michigan in two.
6. Ferries operating across straits at right angles to heavy boat traffic create a constant hazard.

Arguments Against

1. Bridge not necessary--would serve no economic purpose.
2. It would cost too much money to be practical.
3. Not a sound engineering project.
4. People like a boat trip better than a bridge ride.

So much for the Mackinac straits bridge—an imminent reality to some and just a pipe-dream to others.

Controversy

The state's office building problem is just as controversial. It doesn't involve as much money, but it goes back farther into history and generates sparks from the old conflict of interests between the state government and the townspeople of a capital city.

It was a generation or two ago when the problem of crowded state offices began to pinch. Without going into too much detail it may be said to have started not long after the present state capitol, now a time-seasoned mecca for tourists, was erected during the period 1873-1879.

At that time Michigan's state government was a comparatively simple business. There were offices in the capitol for all the elected state officials, and an unpretentious state office building was built nearby to house additional necessary departments. Everything was on a cozy basis. The basement of the capitol, now known to visitors as the place where they may see Civil war relics in the musty rotunda, was nothing but a stable. The elected officers drove their horse-drawn carriages under the steps into the building and left them there during the day.

Cramped Quarters

Before long the state authorities found themselves outgrowing their quarters. One thing led to another and each new service to the public called for more employees, more equipment, and more space. To help take care of the overflow, offices were built into the capitol basement and the horses and stalls were taken elsewhere.

Then in 1917-1922 the state erected an expensive office building two blocks away from the capitol. Many felt this structure, at last, would answer the problem. But still Michigan's government continued to grow, and some of the bureaus hardly had time to get settled in their new quarters before they were hustled out to make room for expending departments. One of the first to be eased out was the adjutant general's staff, which was moved into a Lansing office building in 1927 and is still there.

One after another, established divisions were moved out or newly created departments or bureaus were given quarters in privately owned office buildings, until today the state is paying out about $200,000 a year in rentals throughout Michigan. About one-half of this sum is paid to Lansing landlords.

But even at this cost there has been no permanent solution. In fact, state authorities contend that today the condition is acute. Space in the office building is so much at a premium that the health department has set up desks in the corridors. A novel device tried last year by the senate to relieve crowding in the capitol was the building of a sort of balcony in one of the high-ceilinged clerk's rooms.

To relieve the situation, the health department is erecting a building outside the city of Lansing near its laboratories which, when completed next year, will house its offices. The exodus of this one department from the office building will, however, be but a drop in the bucket so far as the entire problem is concerned.

Some idea of the jumbled ramification of the state offices may be gained from the quandary of capitol guides. Sometimes they have been unable to keep track of shifting departmental divisions which are now here, now there, and have been embarrassed by the questions of visitors.

If someone asks for the unemployment compensation department, he is told that's in Detroit because there wasn't room available here. The civil service headquarters is in one Lansing office building. The welfare department is in another. The corporation and securities commission occupies still another. Conservation department divisions are scattered throughout three buildings. And so it goes.

From time to time during recent years someone has proposed that the state erect a new office building or add to the present one. The favorite suggestion is that the two blocks immediately west of the capitol be bought up and a grand new building erected, one that "would do credit" to the state. Such a structure would cost several million dollars.

Landlords Howl

A howl of protest from Lansing landlords and others interested in civic prosperity goes up each time such a proposal is made. The reasons for not putting up a new building pour in, and soon the proponents of the plan wearily give up and the talk dies down. It isn't easy to overcome the argument that the people won't vote a bond issue to finance such a project.

In 1934 the electorate overwhelmingly defeated a referendum on a bond issue which would have provided for an addition to the state office building along with other structures. This has discouraged some who favor the idea of a new building here.

Perhaps that shows the difference between the two proposals. Mention the office building scheme and the result is a sigh or two; mention the straits bridge idea and a controversy ensues.

Newberry

Luce Extension Club To Meet Saturday

Newberry, Mich. — The Luce county extension program planning committee will meet at the community building in Newberry Saturday, October 26, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. In addition to recommending a program of MSC extension work for 1941, several other matters of importance are to be considered.

The state department of conservation is requesting recommendations from the land use planning committee for the use, either public or private, to which the state lands in the county should be put. The afternoon session will be devoted to this subject and is open to anyone who may have suggestions to offer to the committee.

Another project to be discussed is the manufacture of cotton mattresses from surplus commodities cotton.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Three Hundred Out For Old Time Dance At Recreational Hall

Three hundred older folks were swinging their partners, skipping about and doing the less athletic quadrilles in a program of old time dancing last night at the City Recreation center.

The program was arranged especially for older persons and they turned out enthusiastically between the ages of 30 and 70. None appeared on crutches, but two cripples were reported among the spectators.

A WPA orchestra furnished tunes, with specialty fiddling done in old-time manner by Charles Johnson of Escanaba and others and with dance-call artists such as Bill Weisert, Richard St. Martin, Ernest Durnin and Elmer Dawn taking their turns in the center of the floor.

Norman L. Holben, state WPA supervisor of music, dancing and drama from Lansing, was on hand to help out some of the newcomers to the sport of quadrilles, circle two steps, schottisches and just plain old-time waltzes. The younger generation, it seems, never learned them.

Mr. Holben is instructor in a WPA recreational school here and will remain two weeks teaching leaders from other U. P. communities how to do the steps, so that they can teach them to folks back home.

Ontonagon Builds Potato Warehouse

Ontonagon, Mich.—This Lake Superior community now has one of the largest and finest potato storage warehouses in the Northwest, with capacity for 110 carloads of potatoes.

The building is on the lines of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company, and was constructed by the latter on special lease contract for Northwest Potato Farms, Inc., a concern which has become Michigan's largest potato grower in the last two years. The specifications of Robert Pelletier, manager, have been followed throughout. The building is windowless and air conditioned, and is the first of several warehouses to be constructed in the next few years by the Milwaukee Road for the growing company on the same contract agreement.

The warehouse is now being filled with seed potatoes to be planted in Ontonagon county next spring on 1,000 acres which have been cleared during the past summer near the Bergland road west of Ontonagon. The seed was grown on one of the company's farms at Chassell and it has been certified by state inspectors. Use of the building is available to other farmers wishing to store potatoes.

The land clearing operations of Northwest Potato Farms, Inc., in Ontonagon county have been conducted with speed and efficiency through the use of the most modern machinery and have attracted throngs of local and other sightseers. Mr. Pelletier is a former Maine grower, and he states that conditions in Michigan's Upper Peninsula are fully as good as in the best sections of Aroostook county, Maine, for high grade potato production. This district has the additional advantage of being closer to the great central western consuming centers than Maine, with much lower freight rates.

Bureau Committee Will Meet Nov. 8

Abbott M. Fox, Iron Mountain, president of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau has called a meeting of the Bureau's executive committee, to be held at the Dickinson hotel in that city November 8, at 10 a. m. central standard time.

Bids on the printing of the organization's 1941 Lure Book, and a fishing directory which will supplement the Lure Book, will be opened at that time and contracts awarded for the printing of the same.

John Norgaard, superintendent of the sewage disposal department, is preparing an article for "American City" on the operation of a gas engine at the disposal plant which burns formerly wasted sewage gas to supply power and heat.

Both were requested by magazine editors and both will be published shortly.

Vandenberg Reviews Record In Radio Talk

Detroit, Oct. 23 (AP)—United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg in a radio address tonight reviewed portions of his congressional record and denied he had ever obstructed defense measures.

Speaking before a "no third term" rally in Cass Technical high school, Vandenberg declared he had voted for every defense appropriation and all but two army and navy appropriations since 1930.

"Both exceptions were when there was no war issue in sight, not even in the presidential imagination," he declared, adding:

"I voted against a bill which made America set a new tempo in the international armaments race by being the first in the world to start building 45,000-ton battleships.

For Preparedness

"I continue to favor arms limitations the first moment an insane world ca nrecover its senses, even as I favor total preparedness now.

"In the other instance, I was pleading for greater air power."

Vandenberg said he had voted against the supreme court and government reorganization bills because constituents did not want a rubber stamp congress, and had led senate fights against "such wasteful monstrosities as the Florida Ship Canal and the Passamaquoddy Tidal Power dream" which "saved the hard-pressed taxpayers about $500,000,000."

"Are my Michigan critics meaning that they would go ahead and waste this $500,000,000 if they got a chance?" he asked.

"They say that I am an expensive luxury. Expensive to whom, I inquire? Expensive, I hope, to the boondogglers, wasters, spendthrifts and racketeers. And I give you my pledge I will continue on this 'expensive' career."

Congress Needed Now

Vandenberg said he wanted an "impregnable America" if war comes to the western hemisphere, "but I am unalterably opposed to our participation in foreign wars" and "I am opposed to policies that would needlessly drag us into foreign wars."

He stressed the need of congress remaining in session because "the destiny of the nation should not be left at the mercy of any one man."

A parade preceded the rally and floats bore banners denouncing a third term with such phrases as "two terms are enough for any man," "a third term savors of dictatorship," and "Uncle Sam is the only indispensable man."

Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly, who is seeking re-election, urged that Governor Dickinson and Auditor General Vernon J. Brown be returned to office.

The text of Senator Vandenberg's address follows:

This is the only speech in this campaign in which I intend to talk about myself. No matter how aggravating the personal attacks upon me may become—and I fully understand that there are no limits to which some of my self-serving critics will not go—I intend to let my record determine your decision whether I am entitled to your votes for re-election to the United States Senate on November 5th. But I do want to be sure that we "keep this record straight." I want you to have the whole truth.

I am deeply grateful for the privilege of having served great Michigan in the Senate of the United States. I am very humble in my appreciation of your confidence and trust. It is a rare honor to be the senior Senator from Michigan; it is a tremendous obligation; and I can say, out of a rich experience, that it is an equally great burden. I have given you every effort and every resource at my command in the constant attempt to justify your faith. I am not conscious of a single blemish on the integrity of the record I have made. Undoubtedly there have been errors of judgment. I am not infallible any more than I am indispensable. Undoubtedly you all, upon one occasion or another, have disagreed with me. That is inevitable in a time of such great complexity. I can only hope that most of us have been in agreement most of the time; and I am heartened to believe this is true when I find that out of 10,000 roll calls I have answered in the Senate, my Michigan opponents are unable to dig up more than one-tenth of one per cent to complain about. At any rate, this I know: I have never consciously failed to do my best for you, and I have always sought to consult only the welfare of our whole people. You may depend upon a continuation of these attitudes if I am re-elected to the Senate; and I want now to thank not only the Republicans of Michigan but also the Jeffersonian Democrats who have so generously assured me of their 1940 support.

Asks for Reelection

Naturally I want to be re-elected. Naturally—because I am a bit prejudiced—I think it is to Michigan's advantage that I should be re-elected. I believe I know that Michigan's vast business life (including all its workers) are the gainers from my ranking membership on the Senate Finance Committee. I believe I know that Michigan's rivers and harbors and maritime concerns—(and we have the second longest coast line of any State in the Union)—are the gainers from my ranking position on the Senate Commerce Committee. I think I know that my ranking membership on other Committees—including the great Senate Foreign Relations Committee—is an asset to Michigan and all its people. At any rate, since I am reporting to you tonight upon my stewardship, I submit these preliminary facts to let you understand where Michigan's senior senatorship fits into the business of the Senate. My Senate position is yours, my fellow citizens of Michigan. I submit that it is not to be dismissed quite as contemptuously as some of my political crtics would like to pretend.

When I entered the Senate I took an oath to support and defend the Constitution of the United States. The preservation of the spirit of the Constitution and its Bill of Rights is the supreme necessity of the American people. I have declined—and I want you to know, unequivocally, that I shall continue to decline—to surrender any part of it. I believe in the full preservation of all our civil liberties—freedom of speech, of press, of religion—and I shall never be a party to any prejudicial raids on them, even in the hysteria of some emotional moment when cruel intolerance is on the march. I believe in the full preservation of the Constitutional "checks and balances" which are the root-source of our freedoms. I believe in the full preservation of the Constitutional limitations which separate the executive, the legislative and the judicial power. Therein lies our only guarantee of continuing liberty in a world where freedom dies under almost every other flag. I have defended—and I shall continue to defend—this vital structure of our representative Republic against all attacks, no matter from what source they come. Even the President must be the servant—not the master—of the Constitution, despite his ambitions to the contrary. Only thus can he be the servant, rather than the dictating master of our 130,000,000 people. In no other way shall we retain democracy. I shall have no part in subverting our democracy—and I want no votes on next November 5th on any other basis.

Defense of Constitution

Conforming with my oath, my conscience and my convictions upon this basic defense of indispensable American institutions, I fought against President Roosevelt's attempt to rob the judiciary of its vital independence, and to force the Supreme Court, the final bulwark of our freedoms, to bow to his imperial will. I fought against President Roosevelt's ill-starred re-organization bill which would have reached into the independent agencies of government and made them puppets of the executive pleasure. I fought against President Roosevelt's request for legislation "regardless of its Constitutionality"—(his words, not mine). I fought against "government by executive decree"—(which is the American paraphrase of dictatorship). For these reasons, my self-seeking Michigan critics now accuse me of being a Senate "heckler"—an "obstructionist." Well—if that be treason, make the most of it. I accept the compliment. What I have done before I shall do again—if re-elected to the Senate. I want no voter to support me under any misapprehension. I shall always "heckle" any subverters of the spirit of the Constitution. I shall always "obstruct"—to my last breath—any and all efforts to break down our Constitutional protections for democracy and to impose any form or degree of executive dictatorship in the United States. I believe that I have been faithful to my oath to support and defend the Constitution. If I am re-elected, this will continue to be my guiding star. I should find it difficult to believe that the citizens of Michigan would want me to do otherwise.

What does this complaint that I am an "obstructionist" mean? Is it, by any chance, a defense of a "rubber stamp" Congress—a Congress that takes all its orders from The White House and the Brain Trust—a Congress that jumps through the hoop every time it hears the crack of the White House whip—a Congress that should be "purged" of every independent soul that dares think for itself—a Congress of automatic "ditto marks?" Is that Constitutional government? Is that representative democracy? What's the difference between that and dictatorship? Haven't we had enough of that sort of thing? Haven't we had too much? Is that the way Michigan wants to be represented in the Senate? If so, let's be frank about it. I'm not your man. I decline to be any part of the down-fall of the Republic.

I think I have proved that I can legitimately co-operate, as a Senator, with the other co-ordinate branches of the government. I think I have proved that I can legitimately co-operate, as a Senator, with the Chief Executive, even when he belongs to the opposite Party. But in the final analysis I shall acknowledge no sovereign except the Constitution and my free constituents. I shall continue to be an "obstructionist" whenever I conceive it to be my duty to free America; and I will answer only to you, the voters of Michigan, for the results.

Fought "Boondoggling"

Now let me prove to you that the results are often USEFUL TO THE COUNTRY. Here are a few examples, in the field of realistic legislation. I was so successful an "obstructionist" that I saved hard-pressed tax-payers of this country about $500,000,000 through leading the Senate battles against such extravagant, wasteful, boon-doggling monstrosities as the Florida Ship Canal, the Passamaquoddy tidal power dream, the Tombigbee nonsense, and some others. By any chance, are my Michigan critics—who complain that I am an "obstructionist" — meaning that they would go ahead and waste this $500,000,000 if they get the chance as a result of next November's ballot? They say I am an "expensive luxury." Expensive for whom, I am moved to inquire? Expensive, I hope, for the boon-dogglers and the wasters and the spend-thrifts and the racketeers. And I give you the pledge that I shall continue upon this "expensive" career.

The truth of the matter is that a healthy opposition in the Congress is often of great advantage even to the Administration in power, even though its job-hunters won't admit it. Again I'll give you an example—and again you'll forgive me for talking about myself; but this is the one and only occasion in this campaign when I shall make a personal report to you about some of the things I have been trying to do in Washington as your Senator.

I might give you the example of bank deposit insurance. While it was the splendid culmination of the efforts of many Democrats and Republicans—and I claim no monopoly of credit—the fact remains that it was inaugurated on January 1, 1934 under the terms of the universally labeled "Vandenberg Amendment" to the Banking Act of 1933; and the fact remains that Leo Crowley, Chairman of the Federal Bank Deposit insurance Corporation, has been good enough, in his own words, to call me the "father of bank deposit insurance." Wherever the credit lies, I want to make this plain. It does not belong to the owner of The New Deal. My authority is Democratic Senator Carter Glass of Virginia who said on the floor of the Senate on July 25, 1935:

"When it was first proposed to establish the insurance of deposits fund, the President of the United States and his then Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Woodin, were very emphatically and bitterly opposed to it. They said they would not stand for it."

It was "opposition"—and not a subservient "me too" rubber stamp attitude in Congress—that brought them round to the greatest, single social and economic triumph of the last seven years.

Favors Social Security

But let me give you a lated example. I voted in favor of the Social Security Act. I have voted for other progressive, social reforms. I believe in social-mindedness; but I am oposed to Socialism. I would not take any backward steps in any sound, social and economic reforms of the last seven years. I never have. I never will. Human rights are our paramount concern. I repeat; I voted for the Social Security Act. But I did not like some of its provisions. So I proceeded to attack them—constructively. I suppose these present, campaign critics of mine would say that I was just "heckling." All right. But what was I "heckling?" I was "heckling" the utterly indefensable collection of a so-called "full reserve" for old age pensions—a "reserve" ultimately intended to reach the astronomical figure of 49 billion dollars—a "reserve" which was unnecessary in a public, tax-supported, pension system—a "reserve," in truth, which was only being collected to cushion the empty Treasury of the United States and which was being expended not for pensions but for general debts. I "heckled" until I got a Commission of experts appointed to re-survey the problem. I "heckled" until I got the issue squarely before Congress and the country. I "heckled" until the Administration itself admitted that it was wrong. I "heckled" until the law was changed. As the direct and specific result of that "heckling" and that change in the law, the "full reserve" was abandoned and every worker in Michigan and America was SAVED AN INCREASE OF 50% IN THE PAY ROLL TAXES WHICH WOULD HAVE BEEN TAKEN OUT OF HIS PAY ENVELOPE BEGINNING LAST NEW YEARS. Now, I'll leave it to you. Isn't a little "heckling" very much worth while? Wouldn't you like to vote next November for a little more of the same?

Now let's look at the question of war and national defense. With two exceptions, I have voted for every Army and Navy appropriation Bill throughout the last ten years. I have voted for 26 of them. My vote-hunting critics never tell you about the 26. They talk about the two. Both exceptions were when there was no war issue in sight—not even in the presidential imagination. It was before the President had even gotten round to encourage Munich. In the major instance I voted against a Bill which made America set a new tempo in the international armaments race by being the first power in the world to start building 45,000 ton battleships. I continue to be in favor of arms limitations the first moment when an insane world can recover its senses. Meanwhile, however, I favor total preparedness, as my record proves. In one of those two instances, by the way, it will interest you to know that I was pleading for greater air power. I have voted for every emergency defense apropriation since war came again to curse the world. I voted to mobilize the National Guard and all component reserves. I voted to reassert the Monroe Doctrine's defiance to all conquest aimed at the New World. I have heartily supported an intimate defense partnership between Canada and the United States. I have repeatedly insisted that I will provide all the man-power which the Army requires—by whatever method is necessary to this end. I am for total preparedness on land and sea and in both oceans. That is the record of the past. It will be the record of the future if you, my fellow citizens of Michigan, honor me again with your senatorial commission. It is a record which, like any record, can be misrepresented by half-truths. But it is a record which will stand the scrutiny of any country-lover in this land.

Wants Strong America

I want an impregnable America if war comes to any part of this Western hemisphere. But I am unalterably opposed to our participation in foreign wars or any policies that would needlessly drag us into foreign wars. So far as I am concerned, our sons shall not fight again on foreign soil. Help for intrepid England? Yes; because it is obviously to our advantage to have England win. All possible help for England—so long as we do not become a co-belligerent, and so long as we do not dissipate the essential neucleus of our own defense. But we must not dissipate the essential neucleus of our own defense: (1) because we must be ready to defend the New World and make good on our pledge to do so if this Western Hemisphere becomes the last hope of civilization and the last reliance of submerged peoples everywhere; (2) because I propose that AMERICA SHALL SURVIVE NO MATTER WHO WINS OR LOSES IN EITHER EUROPE OR AFRICA OR ASIA.

Now let me speak—with necessary brevity—about conditions on the "home front." I have oposed the present Administration's pump-priming schemes for restoring prosperity and jobs. They have failed. Barring the unnatural impetus of war orders, we have as many unemployed as ever. There is only one way to get American prosperity back in gear and that is to get American production and American investment and American enterprise going again. It requires friendly, sympathetic national leadership which this Administration has not provided and cannot provide. It requires a restoration of CONFIDENCE that tradition l, American free enterprise shall have a healthy chance again. I am irrevocably committeed to that program and that objective. We must adequately sustain the victims of this depression — which lasted longer here than any other place on earth—until real jobs at real wages are restored. It CAN be done. It is a business proposition. It is a task for business leadership. That is one of the great reasons why the Republican Party nominated a great, successful, seasoned, effective business administrator for President. That is one of the reasons why I support him. It is the reason why I have the deep conviction that the election of Wendell Willkie will put this country on the high road to better times for all our people.

My fellow citizens of Michigan, I have tried—within the necessary limits of my time—to frankly disclose my mind to you. I have referred to my own Senate record because it is one of the exhibits upon which you must pass next November 5th. I am a Republican—and I deeply feel that the Republican Party is as much an agent of destiny in 1940 as it was when Lincoln led it to its first great national service 80 years ago. But this is more than a Republican cause this year. The challenge rises far above mere party lines. We march in common ranks and common cause with countless, brave Jeffersonian Democrats who believe that a third-term-presidency is the precise menace which Thomas Jefferson himself declared that it would always be—sheer poison to the American way of government and life; and who believe that Senate Democrats were right when they solemnly declared in 1928, by formal Senate Resolution, that a third term presidency is "unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions." Those words cannot be taken back. They stand in the record to condemn any reach for undemocratic presidential power. While it is the Republican party which is the actual mechanism through which these Republican and Democratic votes must register the saving verdict, it is in reality an AMERICAN PARTY which thus offers you the way to peace, progress, sanity, solvency, prosperity and Constitutional salvation.

I conclude on the personal note, as I began. I have been honored by re-nomination to succeed myself in the Senate of the United States. I am humbly grateful to all my friends in Michigan for the support they have given me in years gone by. I have done my best to serve this great Commonwealth faithfully. I have no illusions about my own "indispensability." There is no such thing in a State of 5,000,000 people or in a nation of 130,000,000 souls. But if my record is worthy of your endorsement, and if my experience is valuable in these critical and complex times, I shall welcome your votes as a mandate to carry on for Michigan and America; and I shall do my utmost best to deserve a renewal of your faith.

Her Work An Awful Drudgery Feeling As She Did; Nagging Backpains, Nervousness Yield to Modern Capsule Remedy

"KruGon did not disappoint me with its results," said Mrs. Catherine Scott, 602 S. Center St., Royal Oak, Michigan. "My health problems began to mount when I was taken with a stubborn case of constipation several years ago. Gas and bloating followed every meal I ate and m ystomach would become so filled with gas I could hardly stand it. This made me nervous, was always tired and worn-out and lacked the pep and ambition to do my work. Backaches too made my daily work a drudgery and my case was continually growing worse. Then I found in KruGon just what I had been wanting for the past six years."

"How happy I am now that I gave KruGon the opportunity of helping me," continued Mrs. Scott. "From the first I noticed a vast change in my bowel action and today I am regular as can be. Soon I was not having that trouble with gas and bloating after my meals. I sleep good each night now, those backaches have been relieved and I feel better than I have in years. I have only the highest praise for this commendable capsule remedy and am glad to give my testimony that other sufferers may learn of it too."

Soliloquy
At A Soda Fountain

"Gee, he's a swell guy! A crazy, red-headed Irishman. But we had lots of fun.

"He left the first of the week ahead of the rest of the gang. They're leaving Thursday night for Camp Beauregard. And since then I don't hardly know what to do with myself.

"It's all right during the day, of course, but then at night—I sit there eating supper and it comes about 6 o'clock and I wait for the 'phone to ring like it used to. But it doesn't. Makes you feel sort of lonesome all over again every night.

"Don't know what I'll do for nearly a whole year. I went around half lost all the time he was at Camp McCoy with the National Guard last summer—three weeks.

"I'll see him Christmas, of course. I'll be going down there. They get 30 days furlough during the year and he can take part of his time then. But that's a long time from now.

"Sure seems funny not having anyone to go out with. Have to pay your own way to shows or wherever you go—with a bunch of girls maybe. Or bowling. We used to have lots of fun at that, or almost anywhere.

"He didn't make much of it when he left, though. Just took me up to the door. 'So long, Kid,' he said; 'see you Christmas.' Then he beat it. He had to get up early and start the trip early next morning.

"In a way, it's not so bad. Getting in early this way, he'll get a top sergeant ranking ahead of the rest of the mob. That'll be a help of course, if anything ever really happens.

"Sure, we're going up to see the rest of the boys off tomorrow night. Poor kids. They'll need all the cheering they can get. Don't know that I'll enjoy it so much, though.

"Oh well— Heck! That's life, I guess."

Employers Told Of New Section In Revenue Act

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering in a statement issued today called attention to section 701 of the recently enacted Second Revenue Act of 1940. This section is of particular interest to employers who failed to pay their contributions to State unemployment funds for 1936, 1937, 1938, or 1939 in time to entitle them to the credit against the Federal unemployment tax for those years.

The section provides that if contributions for 1936, 1937, or 1938 are paid to the State on or before December 6, 1940, the amount of such contributions will be allowable as credit against the Federal tax for those years. The amount of such credit, however, may not, in any case, exceed 90 per cent of the tax against which it is applied. Under the law as it existed prior to the enactment of this section, credit against the tax for the years 1936, 1937, and 1938 was allowable only if the contributions for those years were paid prior to October 9, 1939.

The section also provides that employers may receive credit against the Federal unemployment tax for 1939 if the contributions for that year are paid to the State on or before December 6, 1940. The amount of such credit, however, will be limited to 90 per cent of the amount which would have been allowable as credit had the contributions been paid on or before the date fixed for the filing of the employer's return for such year. This date, unless otherwise extended, was January 31, 1940.

Much Space Being Sold In Lure Book

Marquette, Mich. — One hundred and fifty-two advertisers and old and new members including individuals, corporations, hotel owners, resorts and county boards have signed up for space in the Lure Book and Fishing Directory of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, it was announced this week. Forty-six of these will be in the Bureau's publications next season for the first time. Sales of advertising space aggregate $9,450 to October 2—a new record.

The 1941 sales campaign will be vigorously pushed in counties not yet covered, in an endeavor to complete the list of sales before the holidays. This will insure the compilation and printing of both books in January and February, 1941.

"The earlier these books reach the prospect, the more business the peninsula is likely to realize," said Geo. E. Bishop, secretary-manager. "We deeply appreciate the co-operation given us thus far, and if the response throughout the peninsula is as generous as it has been in the counties visited, and if state assistance is forthcoming as it has been in the past the Development Bureau will be able to do more effective work in 1941 than ever before."

INFANT DEATH RATE HIGHEST

Gladstone Leads State, Health Department Report Shows

The infant death rate of the city of Gladstone in 1939 was the highest of any community of the state of Michigan, according to state health department statistics found in the annual report of the Delta county health department.

During the year 1939, Gladstone's infant death rate was 118.2 per thousand children born while Escanaba's was 85.8 and rural areas of the county only 49.7 per thousand children. These figures are very high as compared with the state mark of 41.8.

In that period, there were 303 children born in Escanaba, 93 in Gladstone and 342 in the county areas. Deaths over a similar period included 177 in Escanaba 63 in Gladstone and 167 in rural areas. The latter figure, however, is inclusive of all deaths, not only infants. The months of highest number of births are January and July, each of which saw 77 children born. There were only 42 born in December. Forty-seven persons died in March and an equal number in May while 25 passed away in February.

Has Active Program

The county health department, of which the city of Gladstone is not a part, has an active program of maternal hygiene, which is essentially a nursing service. It is divided into two phases:

1. Prenatal, or that dealing with the expectant mother, and, 2. Postnatal, that dealing with the period immediately after birth. In both these phases, the services of the public health nurse are paramount.

1. Prenatal care comprises education of the prospective mother on the dangers attendant to pregnancy and childbirth; advice on keeping herself in good physical condition and preliminary instruction in the intelligent care of the infant after birth. It is our practice to urge her to secure medical supervision early in pregnancy, and to emphasize the importance of proper diet, rest, sunshine, fresh air and regular exercise during pregnancy. Prenatal patients are referred to the department by physicians, neighbors, service clubs, and others, but most often by the expectant mothers themselves.

2. Postnatal care. The public health nurse visits every mother listed during the six weeks following child birth, instructing and advising her in the general care of the baby and also in the postnatal care of the mother herself, emphasizing the importance of returning to the physician for regular examinations, and advising her on general health as it affects the nursing child.

Communication

ANSWER IN DEFENSE

Escanaba Daily Press
Editor:

This is a reply to a communication "Att. Mr. Cleary" by Mr. Kenneth Lucas, published in the Press October 22.

Mr. Cleary is not a candidate for public office. He is a good Democratic party worker. There are men on both sides of the political fence who are working for their parties. In none of the communications submitted to the Press by Democrats have I seen an attack, a personal attack such as Mr. Lucas makes, on Republican party workers or candidates.

Yet Mr. Lucas mentions Mr. Cleary's name six times in his communication. He and other Republicans who have submitted recent communications seem to believe that personal attacks against Mr. Cleary and Mr. Lund, two of Escanaba's finest citizens, will strike pay dirt. I believe the public is able to see through such attacks and to judge fairly.

The twisted viewpoint that made it necessary for Mr. Lucas to mention Mr. Cleary's name six times is also shown in the number of times he mentions the name of the Republican candidate for Congress—just four times. Yet he seeks to inform the public on the virtues of his candidate. His purpose would have been served much better to have left Mr. Cleary's name out altogether and devoted his space to his candidate.

But such was not the intention. Rather it was a personal attack on a man who as service officer of the American Legion has been unselfish in aiding World War veterans and their families. Mr. Cleary served in the World War. He has a heart and mind big enough to overlook such political attacks, but his many friends resent it deeply.

Thank God our Democratic people have not resorted to such tactics. But they have had to stand by and see good men and women fro President Roosevelt and his family down become the objects of unfair personalized attacks. I repeat, the public is able to see through such attacks and to judge fairly.

Again, the record of the Republican candidate for congress speaks for itself, without Mr. Lucas's help. Mr. Lund, Democratic candidate for congress, has directed public attention to that record a san issue of the campaign . It might be well for the public to read that record for itself.

Walter Patterson,
Perkins, Michigan.

Thanksgiving Day In Michigan Will Be November 21st

Michigan and 21 other states will observe Thanksgiving day on Nov. 21, one week before the traditional week, according to notification from the office of Governor Dickinson, at Lansing.

On his own initiative, a Detroit businessman, Arthur Gardner, wired the 48 governors asking them to maintain the traditional last Thursday as Turkey day. The replies showed that in addition to Gardner, many governors were wondering what had become of Thanksgiving day.

Many said they were awaiting Presidential action. Roosevelt has indicated he will fix November 21 as the big day, in accordance with his tradition-breaking action last year.

Here Is Box Score

November 21—Alabama, Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, South Carolina, Texas, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Oregon, Montana, Missouri, and New Jersey.

November 28—Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Nevada, Florida, and Arkansas.

Last year 22 states followed the dictates of the President, while 23 refused to change. Three states, Texas, Idaho and Colorado, solved the problem by celebrating both days.

Gardner has been informed by 22 governors that they will declare November 21 Thanksgiving day, providing the President fixes that date. Thirteen will maintain the last Thursday, regardless, and 13 are undecided.

Shares Regard For Tradition

Governor Dickinson's secretary replied to Gardner as follows: "The governor shares your regard for tradition, but feels that the larger consideration relating to Thanksgiving day is to avoid the confusing possibility of two such holidays in successive weeks."

Music in Cowbarn; More Milk

Trinidad, Colo. (UP)—Myron Spencer, who argued that music had "the charm to sooth the savage breast" in dairy cattle, said a swing band heard on the radio in his barn induced his Jersey herd to produce an extra pint of cream daily. Two other farmers installed radios and phonographs in their barns.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

A woman can do a lot more with compliments than cattiness—as every smart woman knows.

If you've ever examined feminine compliments, you'll find they are designed to get results, and they do get them.

A woman, when speaking to a man, never praises another woman for any quality which she herself lacks. If she is ugly, but chic, she raves about chic women—but turns up her nose at mere prettiness.

If she has brains rather than "oomph," she pays tribute to brains in women. If she is clever, she calls attention to other women's cleverness, never their sweetness. And if she is "a born homemaker" she is the first to praise that ability in another woman. But don't think she ever hands anything to a "career wife."

Her reasoning is obvious. By praising her best qualities in other people, she not only calls attention to them in herself, but she may convince her hearer that those are the most important qualities in a woman.

Then, too, the smart woman knows that the way to make a man think another woman is dynamic is to be catty about her. When one woman praises another it makes her appear perfectly harmless. And men aren't interested in perfectly harmless women.

MEN BEGIN TO SUSPECT

Of course, there is another good that comes out of compliments. The woman who praises other women when she is talking to a man gives the impression of being entirely sure of herself and her charms. It is when women run down other women that men suspect they feel they are slipping themselves.

So smart women use compliments instead of cattiness. It is no more trouble—and just look at the results!

Woman are frequently accused of not having done much with the vote since they got it.

Well, they've had fun with it.

At least, wives have. Some wives without any imagination just took the vote when it was given to women and handed it over to their husbands. Their husbands have had two votes instead of one ever since.

But the rest used the vote for all that it is worth—in the way of personal satisfaction.

There is the wife from a Republican family who married a Democrat. In everything else her husband is head man, but boy, oh boy, he can't tell her how to vote. And in election year she doesn't let him forget it.

He argues and tears his hair, but every four years the little woman, submissive in all other things, calmly cancels her husband's vote.

SHE'S MYSTERIOUS EVEN TO HER HUSBAND

Then there is the wife who sits on the fence at each election, and makes her husband sell her on his choice. Just when he thinks he has her sold, she says, "You know I've been thinking . . ." and he has to find some new arguments.

That woman's husband pays more attention to her ideas in election year than in the other three years put together. She knows it and uses the election for all it is worth.

But the wife who, perhaps, gets the most fun out of her vote is the woman who just laughs and says, "Secret ballot" when her husband follows her out of the polls and asks, "Well, how did you vote?"

That woman has found a way to be mysterious, even to a husband.

John Promer Is Fraternity Head

John Promer

He will preside as president for the first time at a meeting on October 31, which will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the fraternity.

The Escanaba student is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Promer of 919 Seventh avenue south.

Athlyn Deshais In Green Bay Story

A story in the Green Bay Press-Gazette on Green Bay's young "career women," carries the following paragraph concerninf Miss Athlyn Deshais, who made her home in Escanaba for a short time and who is well known to many residents here:

"And there's Mary Athlyn Deshais, who is a daugher of Mrs. Frank Ferguson, 1420 S. Jackson street. Miss Deshais is now a feature writer on the Waukegan News-Sun. She has had an unusually active career since being graduated from West High school here. After working here for several years, she attended Marquette university. Following her graduation, she syndicated a children's column to country newspapers and conducted a children's program on WHBY. After more radio work, she became radio editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel. Then for a time, she did free lance writing in Chicago, and much of her fiction was syndicated by the Chicago Daily News. Then she became assistant society editor of the Waukegan paper."

VOTE YES ON PROPOSAL #3

THE CITY OF DETROIT has long enjoyed certain benefits and privileges. On November Fifth they are seeking through the Detroit Street Railways to further encroach upon out-state territory. Specifically, the City of Detroit wants to run its buses over state highways in or between any communities it may choose without subjecting itself to safety regulations and without payment of highway taxes.

You can stop this unfair practice by voting "yes" on State Proposal Number 3.

Proposal Number 3 provides that buses owned by a city or village must first get permission from the Public Service Commission in order to operate two miles beyond city or village limits on state highways. The law affirms the principles under which Michigan's great highway system has been built—that highway users shall pay highway taxes and that highway taxes shall be used for highways.

In fairness to everyone and above all to yourself, cast your vote on this special ballot at the election November Fifth. And be sure to vote "YES".

HIGHWAY BIDS OPENED HERE

Thornton Gets M-95 Job, Monroe Firm Will Landscape US-2

The state highway department received bids on Wednesday at its Escanaba office for two road projects in the Upper Peninsula, one in Marquette county and the other in Delta county. The bids have been forwarded to Lansing for final action.

The $169,919.56 bid of the Thornton Construction company of Hancock was the lowest of nine received for the construction of 3.196 miles of grading and drainage structures on M-95 from Republic northeast in Marquette county. The project is one of the most extensive ever to be undertaken by the state highway department in a boulder-infested area.

Other bidders were: Bacco Construction Company, Iron Mountain, $189,512.32; R. B. Vickery, Suamico, Wis., $190,197.02; A. Lindberg & Sons, Ishpeming, $205,217.76; Wilmer Pierson, Saginaw, $212,217.04; Claude Loomis, Grand Rapids, $214,116.06; C. G. Bridges, Escanaba, $215,054.47; I. L. Whitehead, Sault Ste. Marie, $235,298.15; S. J. Groves & Sons, Minneapolis, $280,532.04.

Rock Excavation Work

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner said that the project on which bids have been received provides for the relocation and grading of about half of the unimproved section from Republic north to Humboldt. The remainder of the stretch is scheduled to be put on the 1941 program. The entire road will be hard-surfaced.

The existing gravel-surfaced road winds snake-like among towering rocks which will be attacked by dynamite and drills. Work is expected to start in early November and will be completed by July 1, 1941. Earth excavation on the project totals 366,564 cubic yards and the rock excavation 30,553 cubic yards. Both are unusually high outside of mountainous country. In comparison the earth excavation on over six miles of grading and drainage on US-2 in Mackinac county totaled 70,000 cubic yards less than it will be on the three miles of the M-95 job.

US-2 Landscaping

The Delta county job in which bids were received is for the landscaping along six miles of US-2 from Bark River east to the Highland golf course. Bidders were I. E. Ilgenfritz & Sons company of Monroe, low with a bid of $4,537.40; and the Millett Nursery of Lansing, $4,783.85.

General roadside planting of trees and shrubs is included in the work. Under the federal road aid program one per cent of the federal aid money the state receives must be expended for roadside landscape development. The job in Delta county is part of that program.

Plant materials to be used include red dogwood, elderberry, shadbush, white spruce, pussywillow, arborvitae, red pine, Virginia creeper and juniper. Sodding and seeding and the rounding of backslopes is a part of the work. Existing trees and shrubs will be preserved. A rustic log pump house will be built and a well drilled to provide pure water at a roadside turn-out station.

Well Water Tests Reveal Little Iron

None of the five wells in this vicinity tested for iron content by the city of Escanaba, showed more than 0.5 parts per million of iron, City Manager George E. Bean reported yesterday.

Some showed only 0.2 or 0.3 parts per million, with the shallower wells having the least.

That is low, comparatively speaking. If the city can have a well with that little iron in the water, there would be no valid kick against using well instead of lake water for a city supply.

Iron is one of the most bothersome minerals found in water, he explained. Heavy iron content stains plumbing fixtures, discolors clothing and clogs pipes. The city must be careful especially on the iron question.

Tests were made of the Cleveland Cliffs Co. well at Kipling, of the Soo Line well at Gladstone, of a well at the Escanaba airport, of the Gallagher deep well, privately owned, on the Old State road and of the Chicago & North Western railway well in Escanaba.

The data will be presented to the city council to consider with regard to the question of sinking a test well.

He entered the Army Department of Service, as a Signal Corps operator, March 31, 1918, and saw ten months service overseas as a member of Company D, 407 Telegraph Battalion.

ONE IS HELD, ONE RELEASED

Masonville Man Charged With Window Theft; Sargent Cleared

Lawrence Deneau of Masonville was held to the circuit court yesterday after being arraigned before Justice of the Peace Alger Strom in Gladstone on a charge of entering without breaking in the night time. He is alleged to have stolen ten window frames and panes from the home of Norbert Fosterling at Lathrop.

The windows were found, officers said, at the home of a brother of Deneau during a search by Deputy Paul Creten Tuesday night. They were taken, it is alleged, while Fosterling, a single man, was away from home working in the woods, about two weeks ago.

Tom Sargenat of Gladstone was released on a ruling by Justice of the Peace Henry E. Ranguette after his attorney had asked dismissed of a $600 theft charge against him on the grounds of lack of evidence.

Thirteen witnesses were called in a hearing of the case last Wednesday, continued until yesterday. Justice Ranguette held that evidence was circumstantial and did not warrant holding the man to circuit court.

The money was alleged to have been taken from a chicken feed barrel in a shed at the Nick Denessen home near Nahma, while Mr. Denessen was away from home last June 15. Sargent, Denessen's step-son, lived across the way at the time.

A charge of larceny against Henry Kohlman of Escanaba was dismissed, but George Campbell was fined $10 and costs when arraigned yesterday before Justice Ranguette for theft of a blanket from a car. Both were arrested by city police last week.

Scheduled for arraignment before Justice of the Peace George W. Carr today are four men from the Nahma vicinity on charges of malicious property damage, in connection with damage to an airplane owned by Ellsworth "Mag" Ranguette of Nahma Junction.

Arrested yesterday by state police and pleading innocent were Roy and Clyde Hartwick. They were sent to the county jail pending hearing today for them and Eugene Groleau and Eugene Nadeau, arrested last week. They pleaded not guilty.

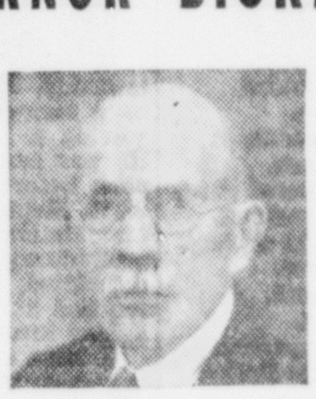
GOVERNOR DICKINSON

He Has Guarded Public Funds



Elect Him November 5

Capable -- Trusted -- Experienced

- He is trusted by Labor. He is fair to all.
- He protects the rights of all citizens.
- He is a farmer, who knows the farmer's problems.
- He is a governor who knows the state's problems.

"MICHIGAN IS SAFE WITH HIM"

(Paid Political Advertisement)

OLD BILL says "Here's what I think—"

"I have been watching, closely, the affairs of our state for twenty years.

"Yes, in all that time there has never been a governor so determined to do the right thing for the people as Luren D. Dickinson. He has been as firm as a rock. His forthrightness has been amazing. In making decisions Governor Dickinson seriously and earnestly considers every side of every problem with a single thought—'What is best for the people?' Having made up his mind he drives a straight, clean furrow to his goal. No politician, no influence, can shunt him off the course.

* * *

"Without fanfare or hullaballoo Governor Dickinson has put every state department to work. He has ordered expenditures cut, and they are being cut. He is boring steadily into the towering deficit left by the previous New Deal administration.

* * *

"A governor, to deserve the office, must appreciate that 'all' the people are a part of Michigan. Some of the governors of the past seemed to think that certain groups were the whole state. Governor Dickinson has the fine faculty of recognizing his responsibility to every man, woman and child.

* * *

"No man ever had greater sympathy for labor. He wants workingmen and women to have jobs, at good pay and with decent hours. He wants them to have good homes, and good living. He has worked hard to keep men employed, and to smooth out disputes. Honest labor will get fat pay envelopes as long as Governor Dickinson has anything to say about it.

* * *

"In Governor Dickinson's administration there has been none of the fantastic experiments which discouraged business and industry and decreased employment. He wants labor to work, and prosper.

* * *

"The incumbent governor is a farmer, and he knows the problems of the farmer. He is the kind of a farmer who gets in the fields and works, and who earns a living from the land.

* * *

"He is a taxpayer, and he wants taxes reduced wherever possible. We don't have to worry about taxes being increased under Governor Dickinson. His philosophy of government is to eliminate extravagances so we may have ample funds to care for the needy and the aged, and still give those who must pay the bill a chance to keep their heads above water.

* * *

"The biggest items in Governor Dickinson's program for the conduct of state government are honesty and uprightness. They cover a lot of ground. They just about sum up everything that is necessary to good government. As I see it, we can feel very safe with the steady hand of a man like that at the helm.

* * *

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Steel, copper and rubber shares formed the vanguard of a broad stock market advance today, extending the lift which appeared in the previous session.

The Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks gained .3 point at 44.8. The volume of transactions was the highest in three weeks, totalling 807,040 shares, compared with 535,730 yesterday.

As has been usual in recent sessions, celerity in trading only appeared on the upswing. When prices wavered from time to time under the impact of profit-taking, the moments of sell off were short and transactions narrow.

In the absence of any outstanding foreign or domestic news with outstanding market value, analysts were forced to ascribe the general rise to adjusting of holdings by traders. However, a small amount of "outside" business was reported.

Supporting the advance in shares was a similar rise in bonds and an unusually strong commodities market.

The most active risers among the shares included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Wheeling Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, Douglas, United Aircraft, U. S. Gypsum, Johns-Manville, Air Reduction, Western Union, Santa Fe, Great Northern preferred and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

In the curb advances of a point or more were recorded for Jones & Laughlin Steel, Ford Motor of Canada "B," Singer Manufacturing, Pepperell and Sherwin Williams.

MILLER RESIGNS

Iron Mountain — Prompted largely by what he termed the "lack of cooperation" on the part of the city council in refusing, at last night's session, to provide space for the Dickinson county draft board on the first floor of the city building, Carl Miller, chairman of the board, today wired his resignation to Col. E. M. Rosecrans, adjutant general of Michigan. "If we can't get cooperation from our own governing units," Miller said, "how can we expect to get it from any of the other agencies with which the board will have to deal in its work." Other members of the board are Clyde Neldberg, Kingsford, secretary, and Howard Vielmetti, of Norway.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Oct. 23 (AP)—Grain prices continued to climb today, wheat, corn and oats gaining fractions to more than a cent as quotations were chalked up to the best level since May when the market collapsed in the wake of the German invasion of western Europe.

Wheat closed 3-8 to 7-8 higher than yesterday; corn 7-8 to 1 3-8 up; oats 3-8 to 5-8 up and rye 3-4 to 7-8 higher. In the spot market wheat was ½ higher, No. 1 hard selling up to 89 cents, while red was quoted above 90 cents. Corn was ½ to 1½ higher.

The upturn, partly sympathetic with price rises in other commodity markets, including hides, livestock, cotton and rubber, as well as strength of securities, was attributed mainly to the tightening commercial supply of grains due to the country holding policy, encouraged by the federal loan program.

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Loans of speculative rating today kept in motion the bond market's slow October upturn.

For an assortment of rail and industrial issues in the lower price brackets traders paid from fractions to 7 points above previously quoted prices. Low yield bonds were steady to firm and U. S. governments closed with a fair number of gains running to around 1-8 point.

Broadened interest in the so-called second grade corporate group accompanied a moderate upturn in stocks. The general rise in industrial earnings has been stressed in some quarters as having favorable implications for bonds in the lower price ranges since the surpluses for fixed charges will not be affected by increased federal taxes; as will be the case with common stocks.

Leading the upturn were Walworth 6s which closed at 90, up 7; Illinois Central-Western Lines 4s at 65, up 5; American Typefounders convertible 5s at 99, up 3, and a Canadian Pacific 4½s at 74¾, up 2¾. Loans of Western Union, American Foreign & Power, Consolidated Oil, Studebaker and Southern Pacific were among the corporates showing fractional improvement.

The foreign list was mixed. Obligations of Japan extended their recent rally.

Transactions totalled $6,305,300, face value, against $5,800,700 Tuesday.

SERIAL STORY

NEW YORK JUNGLE

BY WRAY WADE SEVERN

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Searching for the whimpering dog, Sidney and Marta discover a secret passageway from Adam's room to the Jungle. Sidney goes down, convinced that someone has just preceded him. Marta follows. There is no one in the Jungle. Suddenly Marta points to the figure of the huge ape—it is casting a double shadow.

* * *

THE INTRUDER ESCAPES

CHAPTER XIV

The man who cast that shadow had heard them enter the Jungle, or at least he had heard something that had caused him to hide. He might be armed. Might even be the murderer.

But he could not watch their movements from his hiding place behind the ape. To crane his head toward the fireplace would reveal his identity. He would realize that.

Cautiously, Sidney maneuvered toward the lioness where he could command both the door and the fireplace. From that vantage point he could fire if the fellow moved in either direction to escape. Marta followed.

At the block on which the lioness stood, Sidney halted and waited. He did not think they had been observed. Even in the half light he could see the dried blood from the wound Adam had received when he fell against the scimitar. He knew that Marta, too, had observed it.

She steadied herself against his shoulder. He could feel a trembling in her body and he wished for the hundredth time that he had insisted upon her remaining in her room.

Then he forgot about her. Forgot everything but the need for vigilance. The shadow had begun to divide.

He's going to make a dash for the door. He'd not dare try for the fireplace, Sidney decided. He heard us move in that direction even if he didn't see us.

He heard a gasp behind him. Marta's hand slipped gently from his shoulder. Turning quickly, he caught her unconscious form in his arms.

* * *

For the second time that night she had fainted. She had overestimated her strength. Stifling a betraying exclamation, Sidney eased her noiselessly to the floor. It took but an instant, but he had had to turn his back to the ape.

When he turned around again, the ape cast only a single shadow. The hall door was swinging.

He knew Murphy, a state trooper, was on guard in the kitchen. Unless this mysterious intruder had the quickness of a cat, he would run into trouble as soon as he reached the upper hall.

Grasping his pistol, Braitwood rushed into the hall. It was pitch dark. He found the stairs and bounded up.

The door at the top was locked. He banged on the panel with the butt of his revolver and shouted.

In a moment he heard hurried steps. Togi, half dressed, opened the door. Behind him stood Henry Barkes, in pajamas. Both had bare feet.

"What happen, Mister Braitwood?" the valet demanded, his voice trembling.

"Someone was hiding in the Jungle. He ran up these stairs and locked the door on me so I couldn't follow him," Sidney said. "Run down and look out for Miss Hempfield, Togi. She has fainted. . . . Barkes, where's that damned trooper?"

"Trooper no good. Work day, work night. Go to sleep, I think," Togi sneered.

The commotion had wakened Murphy and he blustered into the hall demanding what the racket meant. He took charge of the search.

But if the shadow had been made by an outsider, that outsider had already escaped. They covered every inch of the rambling old house, and found no trace of an intruder.

* * *

"Maybe you and Miss Hempfield saw the shadow of something outside the window, Mr. Braitwood," Murphy suggested. "A weather vane in the house next mine looks double in some lights, sir. After what's just happened, anyone might hear almost anything and see it, too. No one could have passed me in the kitchen and I'd have heard him run into the hall."

"You no fall asleep, Mr. Trooper?" Togi accused.

"Sleep? Me! I never fell asleep on a job yet. What brought you into the hall so quick, little man?" Murphy eyed the valet with angry suspicion.

"My room right near basement stairs. I look into kitchen when I run out to see who at the door."

"Oh, yeah?" Murphy sneered.

"Oh, lar!" Togi gave back.

Barkes, it developed, had slept in the library. Captain Plowman made a point of all remaining under the one roof until he returned. Though the chauffeur's quarters were over the garage, he had gone there only to get his pajamas, he said.

After Murphy had examined the shaft with a powerful flash, he changed his opinion concerning Sidney's imagination. Three sets of finger and foot prints were visible; Marta's, Sidney's and those of a stranger. The last were badly blurred.

"Your shadow was a wise guy, Mr. Braitwood. He wore gloves and came down in stocking feet." He sniffed the air. "Smells like chloroform up this shaft." Turning to Togi, he barked an order: "Get the people in the house into the library. I want to know what they say they were doing a few minutes ago."

* * *

Patricia Langdon, Nella, Gundrum and Hugh responded to the summons. All except Gundrum, who apparently had not been to bed and was still fully dressed, were in robes. Their faces were tired and apprehensive.

"Did any of you just try to get out of the house unnoticed or do some dirty work in that museum just now?" Murphy demanded.

"If you used common sense, you would realize that women do not try to leave a house in their night gowns," Gundrum answered for the women.

"Long coats cover a lot, and there are rain coats in the hall closet. I spotted them," Murphy countered.

This was logical. Anyone planning an escape might—had he known about the shaft—have descended that way when he heard Sidney prowling about the upper halls. He could have passed Togi's closed door, gone through the kitchen without awakening Murphy, and have left the house by the front entrance. That is, if Barkes had not heard him. Barkes said he had heard nothing until Sidney shouted and pounded on the door.

But why should anyone wish to escape? Why the chloroform? The questions could not be answered.

It developed that Gundrum, too, had heard the dog but he said he thought the animal was outside. Neither Nella nor Sidney mentioned they had known of Gundrum's visit to Pat, but Nella said that she had had an unhappy dream and had awakened crying. Perhaps that had sounded like a dog's whimper.

"What did you dream, Miss?" Murphy asked kindly.

"I dreamed I heard my uncle cry for help," the girl said in a low voice. "I saw him. His face was like an animal's after prey. It frightened me. I cried out."

Like one in a trance, she stood suddenly still, staring as if at a vision.

WELFARE CLUB TAG DAY SAT'Y

Money Is Used for Milk for Pre-School Children

The Child's Welfare club will sponsor its annual Tag Day here Saturday, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Joseph P. Louis, chairman in charge.

Money derived from the event is used each year to help provide milk for pre-school children.

The drive is the lone public solicitation for funds made each year by the Welfare club.

Members of the committee in charge will be assisted in the work by a group of young ladies and high school girls to be selected. The drive will begin at 9 o'clock on Saturday and all committee members and assisting workers should report to headquarters at the Olson and Hanson store promptly at that time.

Both the business and residential sections of Gladstone will be canvassed and a group will also "cover" Rapid River.

Assisting Mrs. Louis on the committee are the Mesdames E. H. Huesner, W. H. Willis, C. A. LaFave, H. W. Lundmark and Byron Skellenger and the Misses Gertrude Kee, June Rosenblum and Elne Swenson.

BEAN WILL SPEAK

Iron Mountain—George Bean, Escanaba city manager, will in the near future address a public meeting in Iron Mountain on the subject of municipal ownership of utilities, according to a resolution submitted to the city council last night by Alderman Jabobs, third ward, and approved with only two dissenting votes— Aldermen Hallman and Tretheway.

Recently, Jacobs said, officers of the Iron Mountain-Kingsford chamber of commerce proposed that a meeting be held, representative of luncheon clubs and other groups, at which the proposed acquisition of a municipally-owned light and power distribution system would be discussed.

SHEAHAN TELLS ABOUT INQUIRY

Prosecutor Explains His Reasons for Grand Jury Quiz

Prosecuting Attorney William J. Sheahan yesterday issued the following statement concerning his request for a grand jury investigation of the affairs of various county offices:

"Inasmuch as there is some public controversy over my having responded to the wishes of many of our citizens by asking for an investigation of county affairs, I feel that the public is entitled to some explanation on my part.

"The board of supervisors appointed a special auditing committee and authorized it to engage the services of the Morrison Auditing company to make a complete audit of the several offices of the county. The audit cost approximately $800. The audit was submitted and rejected by the board for apparent discrepancies.

The special auditing committee of the board of supervisors was instructed to communicate with the Morrison Auditing company and to ask them to correct certain apparent discrepancies in the audit. The revised audit eliminated practically all of the discrepancies and irregularities indicated in the original audit.

"As a result of the original audit one of the county officers has so far refunded $653.34, no mention of which is made in the so-called revised audit. The original audit, which is certified to, discloses many discrepancies which amounts to thousands of dollars to the tax payers of this county.

"I have been besieged both in person and by mail from parties wanting to know why the board of supervisors should pay $800 for an audit, then secure a revised audit and "throw both of them in the discard." The matter of a grand jury investigation would not involve an expenditure in excess of $50 for stenographer fees. If the board was justified in spending $800 for an audit I feel that I am duty bound to determine just why all of the objectionable findings in the original audit were eliminated in the revised audit.

"The board of supervisors voted seven to six to reject the revised audit and refused to allow the bill. Subsequently the board voted to receive the audit and place same on file pending the result of an investigation. This investigation is for public benefit as it is my firm belief that if the board was justified in spending $800 for an audit the public should know just what has transpired.

"It is my firm desire to clear those who are innocent of any irregularities in the original audit and if the facts so develop, fasten the guilt upon anyone to whom it belongs. I think the taxpayers are entitled to this information."

DEBATE WORK OPENS AT GHS

Trio to Face Newberry In First Argument On November 15

Coach Russell Skellenger is pushing preparations for the first debate of the season in which Gladstone high school will clash with Newberry at Newberry on Nov. 15.

While there is a question of whether the argument will be held on that date, due to the fact that Newberry schools are now closed because of a polio quarantine, the locals are continuing work on their case in the event the debate is held as scheduled.

Only two members of this year's squad, Paul Cowen and Rita Rasmussen, have had previous platform experience. Other members trying for places on the team are Eugene Noblet, Jr., who won district honors in declamation last year, Jack LaFave, Charlotte Nelson, Dorothy Strand, Violet Gustafson and Marilyn Johnson.

The question to be used this season in Michigan high schools is: "Resolved, That the Power of the Federal Government Should be Decreased."

In the opening debate Gladstone will handle the negative side of the question and Newberry the affirmative.

Gladstone's second debate will be held here on Nov. 29 with Manistique furnishing the opposition.

Four debates comprise the preliminary series of arguments and a school must win 3 of the four to qualify for the elimination or "sudden death" series of arguments which will follow.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FREIGHTERS AVAILABLE

Marquette—Great Lakes freighters will not be used generally for storage of grains over the winter, but will be held in readiness to resume ore shipping as soon as possible because of an anticipated heavy demand for iron ore from steel fabrication centers next spring, dock executives learned here yesterday.

Use of the ships for grain storage has been a common practice, but because of demands of the national defense program, it will be necessary to operate them as ore-carriers.

Texas Ags Confuse All-America Backfield Race

BLOCKING JOBS PASSED AROUND

Reagan of Penn Remains As Ace; Don Scott Is Standout

BY HERB BARKER

New York, Oct. 23, (AP)—Charge the Texas Aggies with adding a little more confusion to the all-America backfield situation.

Big John Kimbrough, the Aggies' great line-smashing fullback, was a 1939 all-America and an undisputed one. His teammate, Jimmy Thomason, got no general recognition but happened to be just about the best blocking back the Southwest conference ever had seen.

Through the first three weeks of the current season it was the same story. But last week, against Texas Christian, the Aggies reversed assignments and Thomason blossomed out as a first-class offensive star, carrying the ball well and catching two touchdown passes. Kimbrough, meanwhile, took over the main backfield blocking job for the day.

No Monopoly

When it was all over and the Aggies had run their victory skein to 15 straight, Kimbrough told one newspaperman:

"I've been trying to tell you for two years that Jimmy Thomason is the best football player in the game."

This was by all odds the most interesting backfield experiment last week but the Aggies held no monopoly on spectacular ball-carrying exploits.

Frank Reagan, Penn's brilliant back, had the kind of a field day against Princeton that players dream about. He scored 31 points against the Tigers, kicked magnificently and generally was the spearhead of the fearsome Penn offense. His clash with Michigan's Tommy Harmon this week should be something to see. Harmon, although he scored a touchdown and kicked a field goal and one extra point against Illinois, was overshadowed by his teammate, hard-driving Bob Westfall.

Sweet Lalanne Stars

Down at Birmingham the experts got a chance to look at three of the south's most brilliant backs as Tennessee bowled over Alabama. Jimmy Nelson, the 180-pound Alabama junior, carried the full load of the Crimson Tide's offense, kicked well, led the defense and all in all, held his own with the Tennessee stars, first Bob Foxx and then little Johnny Butler. Foxx, suffering from a leg injury, played only a quarter and Butler came into pace the Volunteer offense.

Don Scott, Ohio State's burly quarterback, finally hit his stride against Minnesota. He was a standout in a losing cause as Bruce Smith tallied both Minnesota touchdowns.

In the Southern conference, Jim Lalanne of North Carolina, Tony Gallovich of Wake Forest and Bill Dudley of Virginia made the headlines with their exploits, while Duke, visiting Colgate in the north, uncovered a promising youngster in Moffat Storer.

Among the fullbacks, Milt Piepul of Notre Dame, Norman Standlee of Stanford, Mort Landsberg of Cornell, George Paskvan of Wisconsin and Jim Kisselburgh of Oregon State must be ranked with the best.

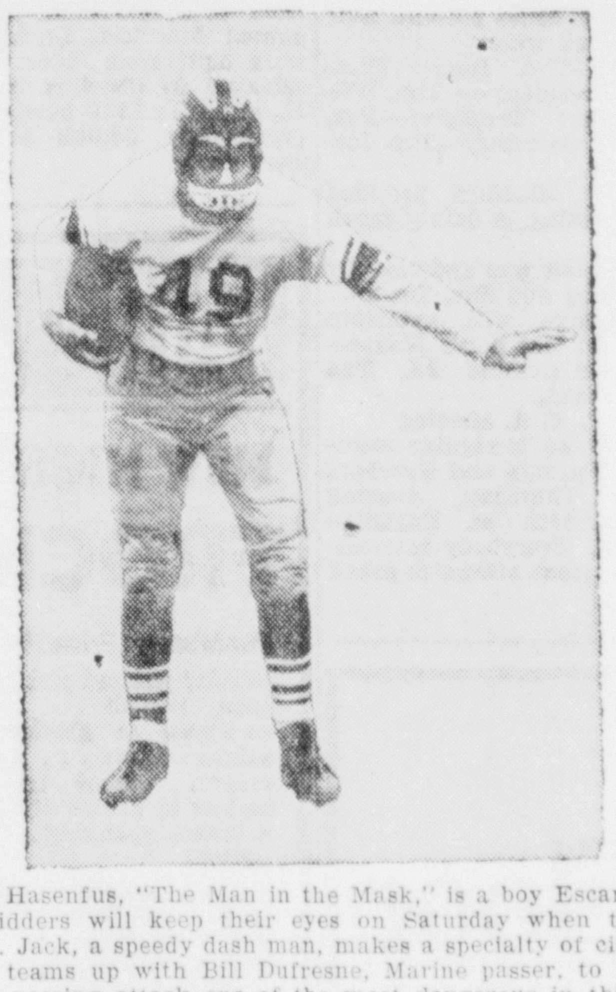
Eskymos to Watch "Man In the Mask"



Jack Hasenfus, "The Man in the Mask," is a boy Escanaba high school gridders will keep their eyes on Saturday when they meet Marinette. Jack, a speedy dash man, makes a specialty of circling the ends and teams up with Bill Dufresne, Marine passer, to make the Marinette passing attack one of the most dangerous in this part of the country.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

TED BALDWIN called this morning to tell us that our column of yesterday was "Lousy" . . . we told him the answer was obvious—we had mentioned another local official without reference to THE Baldwin . . . he agreed that that might have been the answer . . . we see by the paper this morning that, on the basis of his play against Northwestern last Saturday, Bob Henry has won himself a starting job with the Badgers of Wisconsin . . . Denny McGinn talked with Frank Karas Sunday as the Michigan State football team was returning from Philadelphia . . . Frank said Temple had no right to win that ball game . . . but they did . . . Bob Shemky, who is attending University of Michigan, went out for frosh football a couple of times but was asked by Bennie Oosterbaan to drop the sport . . . he looks too promising at basketball . . . we thing Bob understands now why we said earlier in the year that he wouldn't play much football.

Gossip is like the sun — it comes up in one place and sets in another.

GUST TROTTIER, of the Daily Press Trottier's, is a pretty proud man . . . his son, Donnie, who is attending Notre Dame is playing on the Brownson Hall team . . . last Saturday, Donnie scampered 60 yards for the only touchdown of the game to beat Breen Hall, 7-0 . . . Donnie, who played end at St. Joe a couple of years ago, is quarterback . . . how'd you like to join the "First Man's Club"? . . . Jim Rouman, Carl Kant, Mal Sather and yours truly, all eligible for the draft, have pitched in to a kitty, which will go to the first one called and accepted for a year's training . . . enlistments don't count because all are well settled in jobs and will give them up only on request of Uncle Sam.

Get fired by enthusiasm—not by the boss.

JIMMY WARD, handsome sport scribe of the Marquette Mining Journal, writes that, although he did not get into the scoring, Merle Pfotenhauer won a position in the NSTC starting lineup on the basis of his work against Northland college at Ashland, Wisconsin last Friday night . . . Merle never misses seeing his brothers, Donnie and Bob, when they play on the local field . . . Jimmy also writes that Jack Frisk, elongated center of Marquette's peninsula championship basketball team of last year, is fighting for the center job on the NSTC grid team this fall . . . Frisk, who looks like a string bean, weighs 185 pounds . . . Al Kircher, his former coach, was very much desirous of getting him down to Michigan State for his basketball playing ability . . . but apparently, he wasn't successful.

DOESN'T LIKE MOVIES

Milwaukee, Wis.—When Dick Brye, fiery Marquette university football tackle, attends squad meetings at which motion pictures of past Hilltop games are shown, he does so with his fingers crossed. Brye doesn't like movies and vows he'll never go to the cinema, but makes an exception when Coach Paddy Driscoll calls.

CRISLER PLANS ATTACK BY AIR

Bombardment By Passes Expected From Enemy This Saturday

BY WATSON SPOELSTRA

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 23, (AP)—The forward pass thus far this season has been used sparingly by the University of Michigan football team to lend variety to its offensive attack, but Coach Fritz Crisler indicated today the Wolverines were ready to open up an aerial game against Pennsylvania here Saturday.

Running plays built around all-America Tom Harmon and fullback Bob Westfall have accounted largely for Michigan's 14 touchdowns and 1,195 yards by rushing against four opponents. Three other touchdowns came through the air with Harmon tossing to Dave Nelson, Paul Kromer and Ed Frutig.

"We have a potentially strong passing attack," Crisler said as he ordered a practice session of offensive and defensive aerial work, "but obviously we haven't been called on this season to shoot the works against any opponent."

Harmon, with a collegiate record of 75 completions in 182 passes for a .412 average, is Michigan's best passer, although sophomore Cliff Wise, who has appeared only briefly this season, is not far behind. Paul Kromer also is a better than average marksman in pitching passes.

Frutig and Capt. Forest Evashevski are the best receivers on the Michigan squad, though Joe Rogers and Harlin Fraumann, both six feet, three inches tall, are excellent targets.

Michigan has picked up 208 yards through the air this fall with 19 completions in 47 passing attempts. Five passes against Harvard yielded 60 yards, seven against California brought 56, five completitions netted 50 yards in the Michigan State game and two out of five collected 42 yards against Illinois.

But while its own aerial attack may be stepped up, Michigan will be threatened by a bombardment of passes from Frank Reagan, Penn ace, who completed 14 of 26 tries against the Wolverines last year for 188 yards.

If the intensive Quaker attack meets with too much success, Crisler may move Harmon up from safety position for a key defensive assignment. Kromer would take over the safety job which he handled so expertly as a sophomore.

The Penn squad will arrive here Friday and work out in the stadium that morning before retiring until game time at the Dearborn Inn.

FLIVVERS STILL ARE UNBEATEN

Rival Eskymos for Top Spot In Peninsula Grid Competition

Iron Mountain, Oct. 23.—With Iron Mountain out of the picture, the Menominee Range still has a contender for at least a share in the mythical upper peninsula high school football championship — Coach Victor Wojcihovski's Kingsford Flivvers.

Kingsford and Escanaba are the only unbeaten and untied survivors from a list of about 25 major upper peninsula elevens. Coach George Ruwitch's Eskymos, who rolled over Iron Mountain by a convincing score, are almost conceded an undefeated season in Michigan competition, facing in the last hurdle.

In contrast, Kingsford faces a rocky road. A co-championship of the upstate gridiron realm means Kingsford would have to repulse Norway, Crystal Falls and Iron Mountain in succession, all tough assignments. However, it's far from a "dream." The manner in which the Flivvers disposed of Stambaugh last Friday night present bad news for the Menominee range. Kingsford is coming—and fast.

Having Best Season

So far Kingsford has enjoyed its best season in 15 years of football at the Flivver school. Three wins in four starts. The defeat came from Marinette and has no bearing on the U. P. race. Escanaba also faces Marinette and chances of the season's first loss, Saturday at Escanaba. A loss for Escanaba would be convenient for Kingsford, "chilling" any possible dispute centered on Wisconsin games should the Flivvers come through with flying colors.

Gladstone gave Escanaba something to think about by pulling the upset of the week Saturday in knocking off an Ishpeming team of considerable repute by a 19-6 count. Iron River turned on the heat and routed Menominee 39-6, which boded ill for Iron Mountain, which invades Iron River Friday night. Kingsford will have to contend with a Norway team inspired by a 33-2 win over Stephenson.

Primarily important to Kingsford at present is the Menominee Range conference race, in which the standings give the Flivvers the inside track for the first range title in the history of the school. Two conference wins have been posted with the third conference game coming up Friday night with Norway.

Eskymo Offense Best

Escanaba ,topping the U. P. standings with five straight wins, has the best offensive record in the list. Twenty-three points against Iron Mountain gave the 1939 champs an even 100 points. Kingsford, holding foes to two touchdowns in three games, has the best defensive record.

Standings of U. P. teams against Michigan competition are:

Team:	W	L	Tp	Opp

RIVALS CLASH AT ANN ARBOR

Eastern Opponents Are Much to Liking of Wolverines

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 23 (AP)—An imposing intersectional record that had its origin in the days of Fielding H. (Hurry Up) Yost's point-a-minute teams will go on the block here Saturday when Michigan's Wolverines square off against Penn's undefeated Quakers.

The Wolverines, meeting the Quakers in a game which headlines the nation's two leading scorers in All-America Tom Harmon and Frencis X. Reagan, have found eastern opponents very much to their liking—all, that is, except Penn.

When the football series with Penn was resumed in 1935 after an 18-year lapse, the Quakers were the only team to hold an edge over the Wolverines since the turn of the century ushered in the golden point-a-minute era of Yost and his teams at Ann Arbor.

Michigan won in 1935 and has taken the last three games from Penn, so the series now stands all square at eight victories each and two ties.

Harmon and Company are eager to capture Saturday's contest from Penn to clear Michigan's intersectional slate as a "farewell present" to Yost, who retires as athletic director this year.

The Wolverines will carry into Saturday's clash a record of 14 victories and one defeat in competition with teams from the Atlantic seaboard since 1928. During that span Michigan has beaten Penn four times and lost only once, a 17 to 7 setback in 1936.

In the same period, Michigan defeated Harvard three times, Yale, Columbia and Princeton twice and Cornell once.

Perhaps the most famed game of the Penn-Michigan series—and one that Michigan would like to forget—was the 1912 battle in which the Wolverines scored three early touchdowns for a 21-0 lead, then wilted before an inspired Penn team to lose, 27 to 21.

All-America Roy Mercer filled in 1912 the spot that now is Reagan's. Michigan's great Jim Craig occupied the halfback berth that is now Harmon's.

BOYS LIKE CARDS

Milwaukee, Wis.—Where else, but in Milwaukee, will you find a football squad that has schafskopf as its favorite card game? Otherwise known as sheepshead, it is most popular among Marquette university gridmen with bridge and poker also running strong in the Hilltoppers' free hours.

Gladstone Preparing For St. Joe Gridders

Gladstone, Mich.—Football fans of this city will have their first opportunity in several weeks to see the Gladstone high school eleven in action on the home field here Saturday when it faces the strong St. Joseph Parochials of Escanaba.

Coach Eldon Keil was plainly pleased with the work of his charges in the Ishpeming game but pointed out that there is still room for improvement.

The 19-6 victory over the Hematites resulted in a noticeable change in the attitude of the team, which had some hard luck in early games this season, and players were buckling down in earnest work to eliminate some of the weaknesses which still remain in team play.

In scrimmages this week, blocking was being stressed and an effort was being made also to improve downfield blocking which proved weak against Ishpeming. In several instances against the Hematites had weak-side players gone on downfield to block it would have resulted in longer runs or possibly touchdowns.

As is natural, the local mentor is trying to build a defense to stop Young and Baker, Parochial backs, and time is also being spent on pass defense as Carl Kant's eleven has done considerable of its scoring this season via the aerial route.

Marble was the only casualty in the Ishpeming game and his ankle is expected to be okeh by Saturday. However, in the event that Marble isn't available, Gabe, who turned in a sterling performance against the Hematites, will be in at the right guard position.

Ted Baldwin, Bill Puckelwartz and John Bartels, all of Escanaba, will handle the game.

Legend On Army's Notre Dame Game Wrong, Says Harper

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN

Kansas City, Oct. 23 (AP)—Jess Harper, the pipe-smoking cattleman who was both Knute Rockne's predecessor and successor at Notre Dame, says the legend about the first game with Army in 1913 is a bit wrong.

Fiction and hearsay have it the favored Cadets blanked the meager 17-man squad from Indiana in the first half and walked off the field for the rest with a 13 to 0 advantage.

During the intermission Rockne, captain of the Irish, and Gus Dorais, the quarterback (now coach at Detroit university) decided to try the little known forward pass as a last resort, present day accounts have it.

But that's all wrong, says Harper.

The cattleman, here for a noonday speech to a downtown quarterback's group, says Notre Dame tossed two passes that first half and led, 14 to 13.

During the final two periods Dorais heaved 15 of them and completed every one.

"Dorais is the greatest passer I believe I have ever seen. He was a wonderful judge of the speed of his pass receiver, throwing the ball so his man could take it on the dead run with never a slackening of speed or a change of pace," he said.

Harper, who was Walter Eckersall's substitute at the University of Chicago in 1905, demonstrated how Rockne first caught passes against his stomach but added that future ambassador of football later became more proficient and orthodox in his reception.

BRONCOS RANK AS FAVORITES

Bachman Likes Role of Underdog Before Each Game

East Lansing, Oct. 23 (AP)—An indication that Santa Clara's Broncos would be the favorites when they play the Michigan State college football team here Saturday was as pleasing to Coach Charley Bachman today as a doctor's report shortening the State squad's injury list.

Past performances prove that the role of under dog is just what the football coaches need to order for the Spartans before each game.

The Michigan Wolverines were rated several touchdowns better than State in the speculative odds, but the Spartans held Tommy Harmon and his teammates to a one-touchdown edge.

Purdue came to East Lansing on almost even terms, with the odds slightly against State on the basis of sportswriters' selections, and the Spartans won, 20 to 7.

Riding high, the Spartans went to Philadelphia to meet the Temple Owls, and this time Michigan State was favored by a touchdown or more. State lost 21 to 19.

The Spartans figure Saturday will be a day of reckoning at the expense of the Broncos, whose edge was reported to the State coaching staff about as slight as was Purdue's two weeks ago.

Dr. C. F. Holland said Spartan cripples were "coming along satisfactorily," and it looked as though only one, Guard Paul Griffeth, will be out of the lineup Saturday. The condition of Griffeth's leg, earlier reported improved, indicated today the veteran lineman would be unable to play this week.

Fullback Jack Amon, whose injured back was better, is slated to start the game, and Mike Schelb, who received a leg bruise in Philadelphia, was improved.

PACKERS PLAY STEELERS SUN.

Pittsburgh Is Coached By Walt Kiesling, Former Mate

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 23.—Two of the master minds of professional football, Curley Lambeau, Green Bay, and Walter Kiesling, Pittsburgh, will match their gridiron wits Sunday afternoon at State Fair park, Milwaukee, when the Packers and Steelers tangle in a National Football league game. The whistle blows at 2 p. m., sharp.

It wasn't so many years ago (1936 to be exact) that Kiesling played guard for the national champions and Lambeau figured he was one of the smartest forwards in the game. Before playing with Green Bay, Kiesling had seen service with a number of pro teams including the Duluth Eskimos, Pottsville Maroons, Chicago Cards and Bears.

Went Along With Blood

In 1938 when Pittsburgh secured Johnny Blood from Green Bay to take over the coach reins, Kiesling went along to the Smoky City as line mentor and he was promoted to head coach when Blood resigned during the middle of the 1939 season.

This year's Pittsburgh club is the best aggregation that Owner Art Rooney has ever signed the checks for. The Steelers have suffered more than their share of injuries but Coach Kiesling has carried on in a way that has won him a lot of praise all around the circuit.

Beat Detroit 10-7

One of the bright spots on the Pittsburgh record was the 10 to 7 victory over the Lions in Detroit. In this game Kiesling made several substitutions at crucial moments and the replacements were just what the doctor ordered to make victory sure.

Kiesling knows the Packer style of play like a book and it is quite possible that the pilot of the national champions will put in a lot of new stuff for use against the Steelers. Pittsburgh has not been so successful defending against forward passes, according to scout reports received here, and the Bays most likely will take to the air early and often.

Full Preparations For Draft Lottery Tuesday Completed

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—Three devices will be employed next Tuesday to make an unalterable record of the national draft lottery in an effort to prevent inaccuracies and to protect the interests of draft-age men.

National selective service headquarters announced today that—

1. A speed camera will make a photograph of each series number on a strip of miniature film in the order in which each one is drawn from the big glass bowl in the departmental auditorium. Photographed with the actual number itself will be a clock showing the exact time and date it was drawn.

2. Each number as it is drawn will be fastened to a gummed sheet of cardboard which will become a permanent master record of the draft order numbers.

3. Each sheet of the master record, with 100 numbers to each sheet, will be photographed, and from those photographs will be made printing plates. The plates will be used to print copies of the master list for distribution to the 6,500 local selective service boards throughout the country.

Stimson Draws First

Each number will be called out over a public address system with amplifiers inside and outside the auditorium and will be posted on a blackboard for spectators inside the hall. News agencies will speed the numbers across country to thousands of newspapers, and radio will pick up the calling of the lottery.

The master list of serial numbers will determine the order in which men will be called to service from every local board area, unless they volunteer or are deferred.

All three of the permanent records of the draft drawing will be enshrined in the national archives, along with the photographic records.

Arrangements for the drawing, which will be started by Secretary Stimson in the presence of President Roosevelt at noon October 29, proceeded rapidly at national headquarters today.

Friday afternoon a crew of six persons will start the 36-hour task of stuffing serial numbers in non-transparent, blue-lined capsules. When filled, the capsules will be locked in a safe under military guard.

Publicity Elaborate

It is not yet known exactly how many numbers, ranging from 1 up, will be needed, but enough will be dumped into the "goldfish bowl" to cover the largest number of registrants in any one local board area, with some additional to take care of late registrations, errors and transfers.

The number is expected to run over 7,500; and 12 to 15 hours, beginning shortly after noon, will be required to draw all of them.

Lieut. Col. Charles R. Morris, inactive reserve officer of Elizabeth, N. J., who planned the 1917 draft drawing, will begin training three crews of 30 volunteers each Monday to conduct the drawing after the first few numbers have been pulled out by Stimson and other dignitaries. Made up of ex-service men and others, the crews will include tellers, clerks, men to draw the numbers, etc.

National headquarters today also was working out details of a great patriotic parade and celebration to precede the draft drawing, while press, radio and newsreel committees made plans for reporting the event on a scale extraordinary even for Washington.

State Political Gossip

Independent Voters' Reaction Worries Leaders of Parties

BY GUY H. JENKINS
(Grand Rapids Press)

Lansing—Hitting on all cylinders, the 1940 campaign can be considered as in its final stages.

What Michigan will do nationally still remains a big question in the minds of leaders of the two major parties. Each side is claiming the state.

"It's in the bag," is the confident statement of Charles S. Porritt, state Democratic chairman.

"Michigan is Republican and gaining daily. We have passed the doubtful stage, but there will be no coasting," asserts Leslie B. Butler, state Republican chairman.

But the fact remains that each side would give a pretty penny to know the attitude of the silent voter—the 10 per cent that as yet has failed to disclose its political preferences between Wendell L. Willkie and President Roosevelt.

STATE CAMPAIGN HAS AROUSED LITTLE INTEREST.

So far the state campaign has not aroused the interest usually manifested in Michigan politics. The same was true in the primary campaign.

The public may become aroused these last two weeks, but few expect that to happen. Too many of the voters apparently have made up their minds and they are going to vote their convictions regardless of what either side has to say in this stretch drive for votes.

With increased registrations, the election should attract a record vote. Four years ago, when there was a slam-bang campaign, Michigan polled 1,800,000 votes for all candidates for president.

This year there is every reason to believe this number will be exceeded. It might reach the 2,000,000 mark. Several organizations, including the New Deal WPA, campaigned for registrations. The Democrats explained that the WPA activity was merely a part of their Americanization program although it was weeks ago that aliens were removed from the WPA rolls by executive order.

The WPA enrollees also received registration instruction forms and a copy of the presidential proclamation. The Republicans thought it a clever idea of letting the boys and girls know that President Roosevelt is still a candidate.

FOUR PROPOSALS ALSO TEND TOWARD BIG VOTE

Proponents and opponents of the constitutional amendments and the legislative enactments which the voters must pass upon also are expected to aid in getting out the vote.

The amendments provide for liberalizing the 15-mill limitation to permit bond issues for school buildings and sites and civil service. The legislative enactments to be decided are the amendments to the motor vehicle act and the dental bill.

The fight for and against civil service being written in the constitution and the motor vehicle act proposal appear to hold top attention. Detroit is against the motor vehicle act, contending it places control of its municipal transportation system with the public service commission.

The merit system amendment is entering the bitter state. Even state employes, now under civil service, are organizing to defeat it. The politicians publicly are refusing to take any stand on the civil service proposal or the motor vehicle act.

Gov. Dickinson has said he does not believe in writing civil service into the state's fundamental law. His Democratic opponent, Murray D. VanWaganer, has sort of winked at the situation.

A Detroit newspaper columnist, who like one of his eastern contemporaries, is an absolute and final authority on all subjects, expressed some concern as to why VanWagoner in his program for state government, in the event of his election, has said nothing in favor of the merit system amendment.

While VanWagoner is best qualified to speak for himself, it's no secret around the capitol that he like most everyone else running for state offices, does not relish the idea of being hamstrung by a dictatorial personnel director which the admendment provides.

GUBERNATORIAL FOES ARE OPPOSED TO PROPOSAL.

While Dickinson and VanWagoner may change their minds, at this writing neither is for the proposal. And it's safe to predict that should the amendment be defeated the present civil service act will be improved by the next legislature.

From nothing to more than 50 per cent of state employes under civil service within four years is progress for state government. But the gubernatorial candidates look askance at a proposal that places 17,000 employes under the thumb of some personnel director, and makes it mandatory upon the state legislature to provide a minimum of 1 per cent of the previous fiscal year's pay rolls to finance the personnel director and his staff.

The campaign sponsored by the Detroit city council to obtain a negative vote on the motor vehicle act is beginning to have its unfavorable reaction to sponsors of the other measures.

The continuous ding-dong of vote no, vote no, vote no, may become so firmly implanted in the minds of the electors that each one of them will receive the same treatment. Generally the people are more willing to join a campaign to vote no than vote yes. Even for candidates for office, thousands vote against someone rather than for one.

Successful political campaigns very often owe their sucess to an aroused public opinion against the other side rather than an affirmative campaign for the side that succeeds.

Courtroom Number Lucky

The number of his courtroom is 646. The following day a great number of "hunch" players collected on the number 646.
